Strachan Readies For Vote

By JACK FREY
Legislative Reporter

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan started girding the New Democratic Party Friday night for an election battle he does not want to fight this year.

Logger Killed On Hornby

HORNBY ISLAND — Clarence Fitzgerald, aged 40, of Courtenay was killed in a logging accident at the F and G Lumber mill here Friday afternoon.

It is understood that Fitzgerald caught his clothing in moving machinery and was dragged into a donkey engine.

Columbia Trollers Stay In

ASTORIA (AP) — A price dispute kept the Columbia River salmon trolling fleet of more than 100 vessels in port Friday as the salmon season opened.

The president of the West Coast Trollers Association, James Green of Warrenton, declined comment on a report from Westport, Wash., that fishermen had rejected a buyers' offer of 62 cents per pound for large spring, 48 cents for mediums, and 37 cents for small.

Reds Down Pilotless Plane

TOKYO (AP) — An unmanned, high altitude U.S. reconnaissance plane was shot down over Hanoi Friday, the New China news agency said today, quoting a North Vietnamese announcement.

Hanoi said the 18th pilotless plane brought down over North Viet Nam. No further description of the aircraft was given.

Will Be Towed to Sea

Poor Pokey Finally Dies

CHARLES CITY, Va. (AP) — Pokey, the whale, who lived briefly in the James River far from his native home in the Atlantic ocean, died Friday.

The 30-foot mammal, who touched the hearts of many in his fight for life, had about 40 bullet holes in his 3,000-pound body.

Pronouncing Pokey dead was Virginia's state commissioner of fisheries, Milton T. Hickman.

Word of the death came from the office of Governor Mills E. Godwin Jr., which said Pokey's remains would be towed to sea, 70 miles away.

Pokey had been left for dead Wednesday night after he was tied to a tree along the shore and shot 12 times with a .30-calibre rifle. The rifleman intended to kill him on grounds he was a menace to river fishermen.

But when a commercial fisherman began towing away the body Thursday, Pokey came to life. He swished his great tail, snapped three nylon towlines and swam off.

And, even though he had previously been shot 25 or 30 times, Pokey seemed in excellent health, he spouted water defiantly.

Meanwhile, angry protests came from the public.

Since Monday, when Pokey was first spotted by the fisherman, Normay Haynes, callers have been asking for the intervention of the U.S. Army, the coast guard, Governor Godwin, the Virginia Institute of Marine Science and the U.S. interior department.

Commons to Sit July and August?

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson hinted Friday night the government will extend Commons sittings through July and August if necessary to debate important legislation.

He called for all-party agreement to allocate debate as a matter of utmost importance.

The Commons will have a maximum of only 29 days between the end of the Easter recess Tuesday and July 1 for "15 pieces of high-priority legislation that must get through."

Mr. Pearson told the national convention of the Young Liberal Federation of Canada.

The legislation is "social, financial, labor and economic," he said.

His timetable did not include an allowance for unexpected debate, perhaps a "rash" prediction in view of the first part of the session between Jan. 18 and April 6.

In those 11 weeks, the House had spent only six days considering government legislation—all minor.

"The implications of this are serious for the parliamentary conduct of the people's business into accord with the possibilities of our times."

He hoped for "hard, solid, responsible and co-operative work" after the session resumed.

But he had been discouraged by the attitude of Opposition Leader Diefenbaker in a nationwide television appearance Wednesday night.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the inquiry by Mr. Justice Wilfahrt Spence into the Gerda Munzinger affair was reminiscent of the star chamber abolished in Britain in 1641.

"Imagine describing a royal commission as a star chamber when it is headed by a Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada," Mr. Pearson said.

It was unbelievable that Mr. Diefenbaker should suggest such a ridiculous circumstance in the midst of a debate on the death from natural causes of alleged spy George Victor Spencer, whose dismissal from the post office is the subject of a separate inquiry.

Mr. Pearson described it as the "tragic death of a pathetic little man."

All-party agreement on debate?

Boland's Mill Surrender Relived

By DONAL O'HIGGINS
DUBLIN (UPI) — The two men last met on a battlefield one April day in 1916, bitter enemies.

Friday they stood across from each other in the plush boardroom of a modern bakery. They smiled tentatively, then embraced in friendship with a handshake that spanned half a century and opened the floodgates of memory.

"A lot has happened since we last met," said 83-year-old

Irish president Eamon De Valera.

"Yes, indeed," replied 80-year-old John Hiltzen, late of His Majesty's 46th Lincolnshire Regiment.

Half a century had not obscured the memory of their first meeting for either man.

Hiltzen, whose fresh complexion and youthful vigor belies his 80 years, was a British Army captain that April in 1916.

It was he who accepted the flag of truce from De Valera, the fiery young commander of the Boland's Mill Garrison at the collapse of the Easter uprising.

Now they were together, not far from the scene of De Valera's surrender.

"I'm glad to see you survived to enjoy the accomplishment of the ideals of which you spoke on a certain fateful journey," Hiltzen said.

The journey was the heart-breaking march which De Valera was forced to take to nearby Beggar's Bush Barracks as a captive of the British.

The men chatted fondly in the bakery and De Valera unveiled a plaque in honor of the 1916 uprising.

The plaque was inscribed in Gaelic and English: "Commemorating the rising of 1916 and the part played in the rising by the garrison of Boland's Bakery."

De Valera himself was presented with a replica in gold of the sword of light. He then made a similar presentation to 40 survivors of the garrison, which held out for

RCN STUDIES N-WARSHIPS

OTTAWA (CP) — The next generation of Canadian warships will in all likelihood include some that will be nuclear-propelled, defence department officials said Friday.

Moreover, they will be vastly different in design from present-day ships. The four destroyers to be built in 1967-71 will be the last of that type of warship to be built in Canada, officials said.

The defence staff now is studying what type or types of warships Canada should have in 1975-85. A decision is expected this year but after that there will be a long process of figuring out costs before the design stage is reached.

TAKEN FOR GRANTED
Authorities said it can almost be taken for granted that there will be some form of nuclear power in the next generation of ships, possibly in submarines but not necessarily.

In a decade or so, economical ship-borne nuclear power plants, possibly Canadian-made, likely would be available. A nuclear submarine now costs six or seven times more

Irish Quiet Broken

KILKENNY, Ireland (UPI) — A loud explosion shattered the peace of the little village of Inistige in South Kilkenny Friday night, but there was no immediate indication what caused it.

Police set up roadblocks around the village and patrol searched the area to determine what caused the blast and if there was any damage.

Johnson Back At Ranch

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson returned to his ranch Friday night after a 24-hour visit to Mexico City. He was accompanied by his daughter Luci, Mrs. Johnson and their daughter, Lynda, remained in Mexico City overnight.

The president's departure had been delayed for two hours because of an unusually long lunch with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz and an unscheduled visit to the home of Mexican comic actor Mario Moreno (Cantinflas).

STAR INVITATION
The film star invited the U.S. president to come and see him when they met Thursday, the day of Johnson's arrival here.

President Johnson told a cheering crowd here Friday that he supports a proposed summit meeting of U.S. and Latin American leaders.

LINCOLN STATUE

India?

Without naming the Soviet Union directly, Chen Yi accused it of supporting India's desire to annex disputed Kashmir State, while "disguising itself as an impartial mediator."

Chen Yi said imperialist and colonialist forces to save themselves from defeat "have put their stakes on Southeast Asia where the struggle is the sharpest at present."

"The United States government has officially announced that it has shifted the centre of gravity of its global strategy to the Far East."

"It regards China, which resolutely supports the revolutionary anti-imperialist struggles of all peoples, as its main enemy."

Guerrillas Again Hit Airbase

SAIGON (UPI) — Guerrillas penetrated the outer defence perimeter of the vital U.S. Tan Son Nhut airbase for the second time in three days, military sources said Saturday.

In Qui Nhon, about 300 miles northwest of Saigon, the first of more than 3,000 Korean combat troops came ashore to strengthen the republic of Korea's Tiger division.

U.S. military spokesmen reported that more American servicemen were killed fighting in Viet Nam in the first 30 days of this year than in all of 1965.

DAOGA, Pakistan (Reuters) — Foreign Minister Chen Yi of China attacked the Soviet Union Friday for its stand on the Indo-Pakistan war last September, and accused the United States of making preparations to attack China.

Without naming the Soviet Union directly, Chen Yi accused it of supporting India's desire to annex disputed Kashmir State, while "disguising itself as an impartial mediator."

Strange Battleground

Fascinating Story of Canadian Troops in Korea

By DAVE MCINTOSH
OTTAWA (CP) — On Oct. 4, 1950, Gen. Douglas MacArthur told Brig. Frank Fleury of Canada in Tokyo that he had based his plans for his highly successful Inchon amphibious operation the previous month on Wolfe's campaign against Montcalm at Quebec in 1759.

This is one of the many fascinating details in Strange Battleground, the official history of the Canadian Army in Korea published today by the Queen's Printer. The author is Lt.-Col. Herbert Fairlie Wood, now retired England.

The Inchon landing, carried out by the United States 10th Corps and South Korean troops, was the first successful operation of the war by United Nations forces.

Some other tidbits from the 317-page book containing photographs and colored maps:

Canada's contributions were an army brigade, three destroyers, a transport squadron and some 20 fighter pilots were made "piecemeal and then only after the United Nations itself made formal requests."

The United States sent a formal note to Canada, asking for a brigade for the UN force. Canada complied 11 days later, on Aug. 7, 1950.

Less than two years after the 1944 conscription crisis, the Canadian Army asked for a strength of 35,000, to be obtained by compulsory universal service.

The brigade for Korea was raised "in uncertainty, haste and improvisation."

Among the first men enlisted was one with an artificial leg and another 72 years old. Col. Woods adds: "There is at least one recorded case of a civilian who on impulse got on board a troop train in Ottawa with a newly-enlisted friend and was found weeks later in Calgary. The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

The Canadian Army in 1950, then numbering 20,000, was "dangerously near to impotence."

More than one-quarter of the original brigade deserted or were discharged for various reasons, including civilian criminal records.

When Brig. John Rockingham of Victoria tried to accept Ottawa's offer to command the brigade he couldn't reach the chief of the general staff by telephone. The latter was attending "a series of meetings."

Canada wanted the Commonwealth division to be called the "United Nations First Division." It accepted the British compromise: First Commonwealth Division, United Nations Forces.

The Canadian Army was reluctant to recognize the American award of the Distinguished Unit Citation to the 2nd Battalion, PPCLI, Englebert, Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of the general staff, said it was wartime policy not to accept unit awards. The wartime policy, Col. Wood says, came about when Field Marshal Montgomery declined the French government's award of the Croix de Guerre to the Regiment de la Chaudiere. It was not until 1956, three years after the war ended, that the PPCLI was permitted to accept the U.S. award for its stand at Kapyong in 1951.

The UN (U.S.) command tried to order the Canadian brigade into action almost the moment it arrived at the front. Brig. Rockingham "at one stage suggested that he was prepared to be relieved of his command rather than commit his troops before they were ready."

Canada made "too much fuss" over the Kojima Island affair. This was the incident where Canadian troops, without approval of the Canadian government, were sent to Kojima to help guard prisoners-of-war. Oddly, Col. Wood does not mention that Brig. A. B. Connelly, head of the Canadian military mission in Tokyo, was sacked for not informing Ottawa — Lester B. Pearson was then external affairs minister — about what was up.

The Canadian Army suffered 1,543 battle casualties in Korea, including 308 killed. In 1950, Col. Woods notes, 2,389 persons in Canada were killed in traffic accidents.

The author sums up: "The most significant feature of the Canadian participation in the UN operations in Korea was the establishment of a precedent; when subsequent international crises arose there was no question of standing aside. The isolationist sentiment that had dominated Canadian foreign policy in peacetime was abandoned in 1950."

Using Boric Acid Eyewash Not Worth Possible Danger

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: You oppose boric acid as a home remedy, but what do you suggest for an eye-rinse? — J.P.

Yes, I think boric acid might better be discarded as home remedy. Its danger is too great a price to pay for its occasional usefulness.

As an eyewash, there is no need to use boric acid. Rinsing the eyes is a function of tears and the natural moisture of the eyes. Medicated washes interfere with Nature's normal irrigation. If a safe irrigant is desired, one can use a weak salt solution: One quarter teaspoonful of salt dissolved in six ounces of warm water.

If, in severe cases, medication is needed, salves can be used on the lower lid, as directed by your doctor, or drops can be applied with a sterile dropper — also according to instructions. The familiar eye cups are not always clean and sterile, and may introduce a harmful germ when you are hoping only to do some good.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is carrot juice good for the eyes and is what quantities should it be drunk? — F.M.

Carrots (along with a great

Your Good Health

(many other foods) contain carotene, a forerunner of Vitamin A. We all need Vitamin A, and except under most unusual circumstances, we all get it. An extreme lack of it can interfere with night vision, in which case naturally Vitamin A helps correct the trouble. But for anyone eating an anywhere-near normal diet, a surplus of carotene, or other forms of Vitamin A, won't do the eyes any good.

Dear Dr. Molner: Why do some doctors refuse to give people more than one flu shot a year? When can I go to get two shots annually? I am 35 and the flu shots help me a great deal. — MRS. J.B.

Other than in epidemic conditions, two shots annually are needed only when a person has not been previously vaccinated for flu. The first is a sensitizing shot, and the second builds immunity.

After that, for all practical purposes, one shot a year (a booster) will maintain protection. If a flu epidemic comes along, a second shot is a safeguard, bringing you up to maximum safety at that time.

Dear Sir: I take exception to your answer to the woman asking at what time she would feel quickest. You said after the fourth month a slight pressure was used to provoke movement of the baby in a pregnant woman. With my third pregnancy I felt movement at 10 weeks, and in my fourth at 11 or 12 weeks. Is this very unusual? P.D.

Take all the exception you want. I try to give sensible averages. You may not be average. Or you may have mistaken a muscle quiver for movement. Whatever you felt, your babies were all right, and that's the important thing. The purpose of pregnancy is to have healthy babies. It isn't a contest to see who feels the first kick.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for young people of around 20 to have stomach ulcers — A.T.

Yes, it is possible. Even very small babies have them, but this is rare.

Verwoerd's Help Sought

LONDON (UPI) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson on Friday began urgent talks to obtain South Africa's cooperation in getting rebel Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith to the conference table.

Prime Minister Wilson has been attempting to talk South African Prime Minister Verwoerd into limiting the present flow of oil from his country to Rhodesia via Durban pipelines.

Sir Hugh Stephenson, British ambassador to Johannesburg, arrived in London Friday for consultations with Wilson. He was reporting on the initial reaction of the Verwoerd government to Wilson's plan.

Target: Smith Law

TORONTO (CP) — Peter Benson, 44, of London, founder of Amnesty International, says the organization is helping people who are trying to topple the rebel regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia.

Amnesty International formed in 1961 to help persons imprisoned by unjust laws in any country, has members in 82 countries. Mr. Benson is visiting Canadian branches.

He said in an interview the organization is providing legal aid to some political prisoners in Rhodesia.

"We are challenging the legality of the Smith regime in the courts. We're actually working up to one test case."

Mr. Benson said Rhodesian courts have been following legal procedure "but I wouldn't be too optimistic because with the passing of every day the judges are more likely to be influenced by the government."

Of the 5,000 persons adopted by Amnesty throughout the world, 2,000 have been released, he said. "At least half are victims of a preventive detention act of some kind or other. They have never been on trial and never will be."

Police Arrest 'Comely' Agents

SAIGON (UPI) — Police reported Friday the capture of three "extremely comely" teenage Vietnamese girls in a raid on a suspected Viet Cong spy headquarters in the Tran Khanh Chan section of Saigon.

They said one of the girls, who is 19, was the mastermind of the ring, which provided the Communists with information and medical supplies.

Police sources said three cyclodriverns—men who operate three-wheeled motorbike taxis—also were arrested after the raid.

The three girls held "bailments" with Saigon businessmen. Police said the raiders uncovered 500 bottles of penicillin in the hideaway in an alley in the slum section of the capital.

GO-BETWEENS
Police said the girls and the cyclodriverns acted as go-betweens between Saigon businessmen who traded the antibiotics to the Communist guerrillas in return for wood and charcoal.

But reports also said the girls were also accused of being Communist agents who relayed Viet Cong orders to Saigon terrorists and relayed information secured here to the guerrillas in the field.

Aref Death Rocks Mid-East

Power Alignments Thrown Out of Kilter

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The death of President Abdul Salam Aref of Iraq and the election of a successor could shake up power alignments throughout the unsettled Middle East and beyond.

Aref's death in a helicopter crash Wednesday night, removed a leader who had been maintaining precarious stability in the face of political enemies at home and rival bids for Iraqi support in foreign alliances.

Without Aref, Iraq could fall prey to intensified domestic power struggles and increased strains on relations with such countries as Egypt.

At the same time, a new man in the presidency should have a chance to smooth out troubles that some reports have indicated were made worse by Aref himself. Among these are the problem of Iraq's rebellious Kurd people and hostile relations with neighboring Iran.

MADE ENEMIES

Aref made and unmade friends rapidly at home and abroad during a decade of political prominence. Political scores awaiting settlement were building up dangerously at the time of his death.

Aref, a career army officer and devout Moslem with some radical political views, helped overthrow the monarchy in 1958 in alliance with Abdul Karim Kassam. But he broke with Kassam soon after, was jailed and then led the coup that ousted Kassam in 1961.

At Aref's prominent figure in the Baath socialist movement of Iraq and Syria, Aref later forced a destructive rift in the party by firing from the government Baathists who opposed close links with Gamal Abdel Nasser's Egypt.

He was considered a pro-Nasser Arab nationalist, though an Iraq-Egypt unity pact in 1964 was never implemented. But he broke with Iraqi Nasserites last year and made the moderate civilian Abdul Rahman al Bazzal prime minister.

Internal and foreign communists, once tolerated if not encouraged, opposed Aref. Radio broadcasts beamed in Iraq from Communist Bulgaria supported the Kurdish revolution. But Aref's brother and possible successor, Maj. Gen. Abdul Rahman Aref, was in Moscow negotiating for arms on behalf of the government to use against the Kurds at the time of the president's death.

Communists, Nasserites, Baathists and other nationalists are among the groups that would view Aref's death as a signal to press for power. The outcome will be watched closely — if not actually influenced — by Iraq's neighbors and the great powers.

Despondent Diplomat

A MORE ONEROUS task, and a less rewarding one, than that of secretary-general of the United Nations it is difficult to imagine. And the depression of the present incumbent, Mr. U Thant of Burma, is wholly understandable. His discouragement, it is said, has led to his expressed hope to retire when his term expires in November.

He is particularly plagued by what he considers failure in two directions: inability of the world organization to find a formula for ending the war in Viet Nam and a solution for such explosive situations as that existing in Cyprus, where the Turkish-Greek confrontation continues.

Even where the United Nations has had some success, as in The Congo, the organization and its secretary-general have been embarrassed by failure of some of the United Nations partners to contribute either in manpower, material or to the heavy cash requirements.

Mr. Thant met with nothing but frustration when he attempted to intervene in the recent India-Pakistan fighting over the Kashmir issue. Credit for the eventual peace went to the Russians, authors of the Tashkent conference.

Nor was he a hero at the time of the Cuban crisis, in spite of his swift intervention and his warning: "If today the United Nations should prove ineffective it may have proved itself so for all time."

It is not that the secretary-general wants credit for himself. But, like his ill-fated predecessor, Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, he wants the loyal support of the United Nations partners. He sees instead and too often the veto and the abstention from voting and the refusal of the partners to contribute to emergency operations, and even to pay their routine dues.

It has been his hope that "the two giants," the United States and Russia, will negotiate with greater frankness and stop assuming that any idea advanced by the other side is, inevitably, villainous. And he has told them so.

It is little wonder that the once apparently inexhaustible patience of the man is finally showing signs of wearing thin.

The world will face a grave problem in the selection of a successor; and sooner or later one must be found. The Communist countries will almost certainly revive the old "troika" argument, a system of joint responsibility entirely unacceptable to the West. And the compromise could very well result in the appointment of a figure-head where a diplomat of strength as well as wisdom is so essential.

It might be that Mr. Thant's disillusionment results in part from the hopelessness of reconciling nationalistic aims and ambitions with the broader vision of the founders of the United Nations Organization, and that, in fact, he commences to believe "there just ain't no such animal."

Fleet Must Suffer

THE DEPARTMENT of national defence has finally reached the conclusion that plans drawn for a previous government's frigate construction program were really pretty good. Good enough, in fact, to serve as the basic design for four new destroyers the government contemplates in a 1967-71 naval replacement plan.

When the Liberal government, on the advice of its defence minister, Mr. Paul Hellyer, scrapped the Conservative administration's frigate program in 1963, it was explained that the reason was to allow the new authority to re-evaluate the whole question of naval requirement.

They have made this study, presumably, and have come up with much the same answers that the former defence minister, Mr. Douglas Harkness, had as long ago as 1962.

It will be difficult for the government to justify the delay in its replacement program in the light of additional costs incurred. But the really serious result of this procrastination is the disruption of the phasing of replacement construction, requiring the continued operation of obsolete ships, with all the accompanying costs and difficulties inevitable in such circumstances.

We have wasted four years during which this replacement should have been in progress.

Although the defence department speaks confidently of a program which will be completed in another four years, it is a very good bet that it will take longer. First it will be necessary to build the prototype—in a St. Lawrence yard, of course—and whether the remaining keels will be delayed until she is fitted with her weapons system and possibly gas turbines, and her efficiency tested, will decide the length of building time required. It is not impossible that the program will take five or even six years to complete.

Meanwhile the efficiency of the fleet must suffer.

Chivalrous Count

A CELEBRITY of the first war has just died. Count Felix von Luckner, a German sea raider of Allied shipping who gained fame through the quality of mercy that is not strained.

Chivalry in war is not new, although as modern combat grows ever more menacing it doesn't leave much room for elaborate courtesies to the enemy. It goes back to the ancient warriors of medieval days, who prized a code of "honor" even if it did not prevent severely lethal military action.

Even in our own times the military scene is not without its examples of compassion and kindness to opponents. In the area that was von Luckner's own, for instance, there were occasions where Allied sailors risked their own lives to save those of men aboard ships they had sunk.

The German count's record in this respect, however, was outstanding. He took a heavy toll of Allied shipping as a naval commander whose duty it was to sink as many ships as possible, the number running into double figures, but he is credited with not causing the death of a single man aboard the vessels he captured.

Von Luckner roved the seas under false colors, as it were, in that he captained an auxiliary cruiser camouflaged as a Norwegian freighter, but this was deception legitimate to the arts and crafts of war. He offset this in any event by ensuring that enemy crews falling into his trap were safely transferred before he sent his ships to the bottom.

As a result he won respect as well as renown because of the compassion that moved him. He became known as a famous "sea devil" but this was surely a misnomer. The blood-letting of his war would have been lessened had there been more like him.

Pearson Can't Find Gag to Fit His Enemy

WELL, the government, again has met more than its match.

It can't figure out what to do about roughing Ralph Cowan, the notoriously outspoken and fiercely independent-minded MP from the Toronto constituency of York-Humber.

For three years they've been working on him.

And finally it's admitted that all Prime Minister Pearson's MPs and all Prime Minister Pearson's senators can't put Ralph Cowan in what they wistfully think is his place—on the backbench of the Commons with a gag stuffed in his mouth.

So, they're doing nothing, hoping perhaps that if they ignore him, the party's "bad boy" will go away.

its economic power, is being forced to depart from a strict application of the Hallstein doctrine. How much less can we hope to isolate Israel. It would mean a drastic reappraisal of our relations with scores of countries — but particularly with the West. We alone would be the losers.

A new doctrine is therefore being evolved which, by its flexibility, is likely to find a far more sympathetic hearing in the West. Instead of asking states to break with Israel if they want to be friends with the Arabs, Egypt's new strategy is to request them merely to clarify the extent of their dealings with Israel — to explain the limits of the relationship.

As a high-level U.A.R. source put it: "We should like foreign states to tell us clearly: 'We are doing such and such with Israel.' So that we may know where we stand. What we don't like are 'bottomless' relationships."

The new Egyptian doctrine, it is thought here, will open the way for a resumption of Arab relations with West Germany, severed since last May. The crisis was, in effect, the result of an abortive Arab attempt to apply the "either-or" policy.

The sequence of events last year was as follows: When West Germany objected to the invitation extended by President Nasser to the East German leader, Walter Ulbricht, Cairo counter-attacked by accusing Bonn of arming Israel secretly.

Bonn immediately agreed to suspend further arms shipments, but Cairo nevertheless went ahead with the Ulbricht visit. Bonn then struck back by establishing diplomatic relations with Israel, and Cairo retaliated in turn by calling on all Arab states to sever political and economic relations with West Germany.

But the response to this call was not unanimous. Three Arab states — Morocco, Tunisia and Libya — refused to break off diplomatic relations while trade relations with most Arab countries continued unimpaired.

The Arabs were finally forced to accept the West German-Israeli relationship and lost, in the bargain, a substantial amount of West German economic aid.

It is noteworthy that no Arab leader now suggests that Bonn must break off relations with Israel if she wishes to resume trade with Arab states. Arab conditions are rather that any aid to Israel must be matched by comparable aid to the Arabs, but, above all, that West German relations with Israel should be open and above board; that secret deals be excluded and that the limits of the relationship be defined for all to see.

BOSTON (UPI)—The death toll on ships at sea rose to nine Friday in a week-long North Atlantic storm.

War Photographer Who Joined Tito Dies of Cancer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Photographer Perry Fowler, whose Second World War exploits read like a spy thriller, has died of cancer at 58.

Fowler was director of photography for the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner.

JOINED TITO

On an assignment for the Office of Strategic Services, the U.S. spy agency during the Second World War, Fowler dropped by parachute behind the Nazi lines and joined partisan forces led by Joseph Broz—better known now as Marshal Tito, Yugoslavia's head of state.

Tito was having a tough time then maintaining liaison with the Allies. Randolph Churchill was also there to help solve these problems.

Fowler's job was to make a motion-picture record of the Yugoslav guerrilla war and get it out to the free world. Fowler shot the film and got it aboard a courier plane, giving the first films of Tito to the world.

Then, caught by the Germans, Fowler talked his way out from in front of a firing squad.

DESTROYED PAPERS

Fowler shrouded down the commander of the executioners, claiming that he was not a spy. He had the foresight to destroy his OSS credentials before being captured.

He demanded treatment as a prisoner of war and finally got it after months of questioning by the Gestapo.

U.S. Coal Strike

Rebel Miners Buck Leaders

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Coal miners in Central Appalachia turned down new union appeals Friday to end their five-day wildcat strike over a new contract.

While the United Mine Workers and two coal operators' groups continued negotiations here, the 32,500 rebellious miners continued to reject efforts by union leadership to end the walkout. But some 23,000 had returned to work earlier.

Underwater Rescuers Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Navy has ordered six rescue submarines which could be carried by plane to a disaster site and then attach themselves like leeches to a sunken submarine and take out crew members.

Each of the craft is designed to rescue a dozen men at a time in the event of a sudden disaster sending a submarine to the bottom.

3,000 FEET

They are being designed for a maximum working depth of 3,000 feet. The nuclear-powered submarine Thresher which sank off Cape Cod three years ago went down in water 8,000 feet deep.

The navy announced Thursday the first prototype model will be designed and built by early 1963, it hopes—by the Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., Sunnyvale, Calif. Six are to be completed by 1970 at a cost estimated now only in millions of dollars.

The 25-ton craft will be 44 feet long and eight feet in diameter.

Dog Team Trial Link

SPENCE BAY, N.W.T. (CP)—An Eskimo driving a dog team over 60 miles of frozen tundra will be the first link in a communications system carrying some news reports from the murder trial of two Eskimos.

The Eskimo was hired by reporters to carry daily reports to a DEW line station for phoning through Quebec City to their papers and to The Canadian Press, Toronto, to amplify coverage. Basic reports move over limited radio-telephone service at the remote settlement.

RADIO-TELEPHONE

Spence Bay is on Boothia Peninsula, 1,225 miles northwest of Edmonton. First reports on the trial were handled by Hudson's Bay Co. radio-telephones from Spence Bay to Canadian National Telecommunications at Cambridge Bay on Victoria Island for radio relay to Edmonton.

CP staff writer Ron MacDonald of Edmonton, a reporter on the trial, once worked as a summer employee on the DEW line and remembered one station is relatively near Spence Bay.

After an extensive check, cooperative arrangements were made for the dog-team radio-station hookup.

Other Spy Comes Out of North

To Sell Story to Newspaper, Television

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sun says reports are flooding Eastern Canada that a "co-operative spy" involved with Russian embassy officials at the same time as George Victor Spencer has emerged from obscurity to tell his story.

The afternoon newspaper, in a front page story, said Friday it is understood that the man—never publicly named—has run a private business for more than a year in a small community in northern British Columbia.

It says the man was reported to be in Toronto negotiating with newspaper syndicates and television for his story.

The spy case came to light last May when two Soviet embassy officials in Ottawa were expelled from Canada.

At the time, Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons two Canadians were involved in a spy ring that led to the deportations.

One was later identified as Spencer, a 61-year-old former postal clerk found dead last week in his Vancouver home.

An inquest ruled his death natural.

The Sun says the other was the man now believed in Toronto.

The man was described by Prime Minister Pearson as a naturalized Canadian who got in touch with RCMP immediately after the Russians approached him.

Mr. Pearson described the "co-operative spy" as casual, cautious and patriotic and said he had acted as an informant for several months.

VIVISECTION

(EXPERIMENTS ON LIVING ANIMALS)

"There is little in the history of what is called the horrors of vivisection which is not well grounded on truth. For a description of the pain inflicted I refer to that literature, only reiterating that what it recounts is largely and simply fact, selected if may be, but rarely exaggerated. Vivisection is not an innocent study. We may usefully popularize chemistry and electricity, their teaching and their experimentation, even if only as one way of cultivating human powers. But not so with painful vivisection. We may not move as freely in this direction, for there are distinct reasons against it. It can be indiscriminately pursued only by torturing animals; and the word torture is here intentionally used to convey the idea of very severe pain—sometimes the severest conceivable pain, of indefinite duration, often terminating, fortunately for the animal, with its life, but as often only after hours or days of refined infliction, continuously or at intervals. A man about to be burned under a railroad car begs somebody to kill him. The Hindu suttee has been abolished for its inhumanity, and yet it is a statement to be taken literally, that a brief death by burning would be considered a happy release by a human being undergoing the experience of some of the animals who slowly die in a laboratory. Scientific vivisection has all the engrossing fascination of other physical sciences, but the transcendent torture sometimes inflicted has no parallel in any one of them. As to its extent, we read that in the course of ten years seventeen thousand dogs were dissected alive in one laboratory.

There will come a time when the world will look back to modern vivisection in the name of science as they do now to burning at the stake in the name of religion."

Dr. Henry J. Bigelow, Professor Emeritus of Surgery at Harvard University.

Dupuis Weeps at Trial

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Yvon Dupuis broke into tears Friday as he testified about being asked by Prime Minister Pearson to resign as minister without portfolio in the federal government.

Mr. Dupuis' trial on charges of influence-peddling was temporarily adjourned after his weeping began. He has been on the stand for three days, testifying in his own defence.

Defence Lawyer Paul Martineau asked the former minister

CABINET MEETING

Then the lawyer asked the former cabinet member what happened on Jan. 20, 1965.

Mr. Dupuis replied: "On that day there was a cabinet meeting. When it was over, Guy Favreau (then justice minister) called me to a meeting scheduled for 3 p.m. in the prime minister's office."

"When I arrived for this interview, Mr. Pearson and Mr. Favreau displayed great distress and nervousness.

"Mr. Pearson said to me, 'I'm sorry, but I have to ask you for your resignation as minister without portfolio.'"

Mr. Martineau asked Mr. Dupuis, "you resigned?"

WIPES AWAY TEARS

Silence filled the courtroom. Mr. Dupuis took out his handkerchief and wiped away tears. After a further moment of silence, Mr. Dupuis seemed to want to answer the question but he then sobbed and his words were choked off.

SITTING ADJOURNED

Judge Evender Veilleux adjourned the sitting.

Mr. Dupuis is charged with accepting $10,000 from Roch Deslauriers, a St. John's, Que., chiropractor in return for his influence in the obtaining of a provincial racetrack permit. The permit application was unsuccessful.

DEFEATED LATER

Mr. Dupuis resigned from the federal cabinet in January, 1965, and later was defeated in his attempt to win re-election as MP for St. Jean-Berville-Naperville, of which St. John's is the central community.

Quebec to Take Action Against 2,000 Teachers

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec government, plagued by a variety of labor troubles, barred its legal testis Friday at some 2,000 of its teachers who have continued a strike in the face of a court order to return to work.

"Instructions have been given to the Crown's attorneys that they should take action as allowed by the law," Acting Premier Alcide Courcy said in Quebec City.

The government - employed teachers walked off their jobs Tuesday at technical, arts and teacher - training institutions across the province. Their work has been ruled "essential" by the Quebec Labor Relations Board.

Among other labor disputes in Quebec, the strike of 10,000 Montreal - area construction workers continued. Men milled around strike - stalled building projects. Police were out in some strength but there were no reports of violence or arrests.

The Quebec Public Employees' Act forbids any civil service group from strike action if there is an essential service. The Civil Code says persons ignoring a court injunction are liable to $2,000 fines and/or 60 days in jail.

Mr. Justice William Morin of Quebec Superior Court issued the injunction Wednesday banning the strike. The teachers voted Thursday night not to return to work.

The teachers are members of the Syndicat des Professeurs de l'Est du Quebec (the Union of Quebec Government Teachers), affiliated with the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions. Their strike had left 30,000 students without formal instruction.

FIRST AGREEMENT

The teachers are seeking their first-ever collective agreement, with wages and benefits equal to those received by teachers of regional school boards.

Meanwhile, on the Montreal labor front no settlement seemed in sight Friday of the strike that has stalled most construction in the city area.

The two rival union-groups, the Quebec Federation of Labor (CLC) and the CNTU, accused each other of "goon-squad" tactics.

HYDRO WORKERS

Elsewhere on the Quebec labor scene, work-stoppages were continuing which involved 250 engineers of Hydro-Quebec and 3,000 construction workers on the provincially-owned electric utility's power projects at Manicouagan and Outardes in northern Quebec.

Several thousand other Quebec workers were on strike against the Dominion Textile Co. and one of its subsidiaries.

As Girl Killed

Screams Ignored

YARMOUTH, N.S. (UPI) — Four witnesses testifying in a murder trial in Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, either heard screams in the night or saw a couple lying in dense undergrowth, but did nothing.

The following morning the body of a young girl was found. She had died from 26 stab wounds to her body and a crushed skull.

The four witnesses who gave evidence will be followed by another eight in the trial of Robert Randall Comeau, 21, who is charged with the murder of 16-year-old Thelma Marie Haskins of Halifax, whose nude, battered body was found in a clump of bushes in the town of Yarmouth on July 28 of last year.

LEFT DANCE

The Haskins girl had been visiting relatives, and was last seen alive by friends as she left a youth club dance shortly before midnight on the eve of her death.

Three of the witnesses told the court they heard loud screams on the night the girl died. Two who claimed they heard the screams, said they saw a boy and girl go into a wooded area nearby, and later heard a girl moaning in pain. They did nothing.

The third witness said he was awakened from his sleep by loud screams in the night. He did nothing.

A fourth witness said he saw a couple lying in the bushes. He said he stopped to ask what they were doing, and continued on his way when he received no reply.

100 YARDS AWAY

The body of the murdered girl was found in the clump of bushes about 100 yards from her uncle's home where she had been vacationing. Her skull had been fractured in several places, and in addition to the stab wounds to her body, her hands had been slashed indicating she had struggled with her assailant.

U.S. Honors Bomb-Spotter

MADRID — The United States has awarded a medal bearing the likeness of President Johnson and a commendation to the Spanish fishermen who helped recover an American H-bomb from the bottom of the Mediterranean sea.

"I have been entrusted by my government to tell you and your fellow companions of the gratitude of our country," American ambassador Angus E. D. Doherty told the group in the Casa Americana in Madrid.

Simo was the man who saw the bomb, attached to a giant parachute, float down and splash into the sea barely 50 yards from his boat following the collision of a B-52 bomber and a KC-135 tanker over southern Spain.

Simo also helped in the rescue immediately after the collision of three of the four American airmen survivors.

HOLLYWOOD — Lynda Bird Johnson will continue her whirlwind romance with actor George Hamilton with a surprise visit to Hollywood to attend the academy award ceremonies. The president's daughter will sit in the audience to watch the festivities in which her friend Hamilton will perform as an awards presenter.

LIMA — Peruvian police say they have captured Ricardo Gades, brother-in-law of Cuban revolutionary Ernesto Che Guevara. They claimed he was the financial organizer of guerrilla operations in the Andes Mountains.

Names in the News

HOLLYWOOD — The Simstra family has denied Mrs. Nancy Simstra, her daughters Nancy and Tina, and Frank, Jr., spent the Easter holidays in Acapulco, Mexico. Frank Simstra, Sr., has been forbidden entry to Mexico.

BUENOS AIRES — Pictures of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy changing from a skin-tight swimsuit into country clothes were prominently displayed here by the popular Argentine news magazine Gent.

SAN DIEGO — A 23-year-old marine drill instructor Sgt. Russell Armstrong will be court-martialed for the alleged beating of a recruit that resulted in a critical kidney injury.

LONDON — Sir Humphrey Gibbs, Britain's top representative in Rhodesia, has called for talks between the British government and the colony's break-away regime.

NEW YORK — Mayor John V. Lindsay has unveiled a record city budget of $4,615,286, 712 for the next fiscal year. The budget, for the year starting July 1, is the first $4,000,000,000 budget in the city's history.

SURFSIDE, Fla. — The Aaron Guevara are still waiting after nearly three weeks to make contact with the pudgy man who kidnapped their only child, 18-year-old Danny. They have offered the kidnapper $25,000.

Ripper's Letters Mocked Police

LONDON (CP) — Jack the Ripper, who terrorized London's East End in the latter part of the 19th century, said in a poem that he was "society's pillar."

He also claimed in a letter that he ate part of a victim's kidney. The mystery of this vicious killer, who butchered at least five prostitutes in the gaunt slums of the East End 78 years ago, remains unsolved.

Camps' comments, along with diagrams of the murder area, old sketches of some of the bodies, and copies of the killer's poems and teasing letters to the police were published Friday in the London Hospital Gazette quarterly.

With one letter, written "from hell," the killer sent along part of a kidney that he said he had taken from one of his victims. The other part he fried and ate and found it "very nice."

In another letter, he scoffed at those who had described him as a doctor, and said he was down on prostitutes "and I shan't quit ripping them till I do get buckled."

Camps noted that all victims were poor, alcoholic prostitutes who lived a precarious existence. In one of his poems, the assassin said: "I've no time to tell you how I came to be a killer, but you should know, as time will show, that I'm society's pillar."

The garbled handwriting in his misspelled letters to the police and to a vigilante group suggests he may have been trying to add to his disguise; or it may be that he was not well educated. Some of the letters, shortening over police confusion and public fright, announced his forthcoming murders. In one he said: "The next job I do, I shall cut the lady's ears off and send them to the police, just for jolly, wouldn't you?"

LONDON — Barbara Streisand wasn't happy about the opening of her musical Funny Girl but British critics agreed the Broadway import would be a hit — mostly because of her. Miss Streisand, who took six curtain calls and left the most distinguished audience of the season still applauding, said she did not feel any "electricity" from the audience.

SAIGON — Chu Van Binh, editor and publisher of Song, a Vietnamese newspaper, was shot and seriously wounded by two youths.

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — Defence ministry officials said Friday they have rejected plans for a NATO exercise that would bring a West German infantry battalion to Denmark for the first time. The joint Danish-West German exercise was intended as the second of a series of four. During the first, held last month, there were demonstrations against the arrival of German artillery units.

DEFIES SCIENTISTS — Potash is an essential plant food but has never been detected in plants' structure.

TACOMA, Wash. — George H. Weyerhaeuser, abducted and held for ransom in a kidnapping case 30 years ago, has been elected president of the Weyerhaeuser Co. Weyerhaeuser, 33, is a son of the late J. F. Weyerhaeuser, Jr., who was president of the big lumber and wood products firm from 1947 to 1956.

MELBOURNE — Prince Charles has been playing the trumpet to accompany the Goosong Grammar School choir in Timbuc, says Thomas Garret, headmaster of the Australian school. He reported the prince played trumpet "quite well."

South Africa to Ban Most Rhodesian Oil

LONDON (AP)—Ambassador Sir Hugh Stephenson rejected Prime Minister Wilson Friday night that South Africa will ban the passage of all abnormal oil consignments to landlocked Rhodesia.

But the British envoy added his view that the South Africans are unlikely to order a total cutoff of oil and their other trade with Rhodesia, which has swollen since Prime Minister Ian Smith seized independence from Britain Nov. 11.

Stephenson came home from his Pretoria post to present his assessment of the crisis that has developed since an international syndicate set out to break the United Nations' oil embargo on Rhodesia.

The British now consider Prime Minister Hendrick Verwoerd's government in South Africa holds the key to the survival of the Smith regime.

Thus, the envoy's appraisal of Verwoerd's present and future attitudes has become a crucial element in Britain's handling of the situation.

'WILL STAY NEUTRAL'

Qualified informants said Stephenson's report could be summarized thus:

● South Africa stands pat on its policy of remaining neutral in the constitutional dispute that has arisen between London and Salisbury.

● South Africa will maintain a hands-off policy in relation to UN or British sanctions, meaning it will either participate in them at this stage to make them work, nor oppose them to make them fail.

● South Africa as a matter of principle intends to allow normal trade through regular commercial channels with Rhodesia to go on. But, equally on principle, it will bar abnormal transactions that may be designed to establish precedents.

On this reasoning, the Greek tanker Manuela, now docked in Durban, is not going to be allowed to unload her 15,000 tons of oil for passage across South African territory to Rhodesia.

But for the moment, private South African sales or gifts of oil to Rhodesians will not be stopped.

● South Africa inevitably would have to reconsider the whole position if the UN Security Council threatened to make sanctions compulsory, in other words ordered a total cutoff of trade by all UN member-states.

Condition of Mayor Pete Maffeo, of Nanaimo, was reported "unchanged from critical" by the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Victoria, Friday night.

Mayor Maffeo was rushed to hospital a week ago with head injuries which necessitated two operations.

of truce which he had received from De Valera.

"The flag has never been unfurled. It belongs to Dublin and should be kept as a memento of a famous day," he said on that occasion.

But he failed to meet De Valera then because the Irish leader was out of the country.

Friday, Hitzel talked of those other days in 1916.

In particular he recalled the words of De Valera when he surrendered:

"Shoot me if you will, but arrange for my men."

And he recalled De Valera's despairing about to the crowd on the street as he was being marched away:

"If only you had come out with knives and forks to help us."

To De Valera, tall, erect, dignified and a far cry from the "unhappy young volunteer," Friday's ceremony was the most poignant and personal of nationwide celebrations in commemoration of the uprising in which he has been a focal point.

Volcano Erupts

STROMBOLI (AP) — The 3,000-foot volcano which forms this little island off the north-east tip of Sicily erupted Friday for the first time since 1939.

Tower Ensuring Jewels' Safety

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's Crown Jewels, the world's most exotic collection of precious finery, are getting a new home. Picon, an Australian company, has already started building what is hoped to be an explosive-proof vault at the Tower of London to hold the fabulous collections of crowns, sceptres, orbs and other regalia of the monarch. Work is expected to be finished this year.

Standard cab comfort and convenience features include windshield washers, two-speed electric wipers, and comfortable, deep-padded seats with two seat belts.

Printed circuit for instruments eliminates spaghetti-like tangle of wires, ends shorting, makes circuit-tracing easy.

A sturdy three-speed manual transmission is standard. Or choose an extra-cost heavy duty three-speed, four-speed, or automatic transmission (on most models).

Standard GMC pickup engine is an eager 250 cu. in. six with 155 hp. More powerful engines are available, including a 170-hp six, a 175-hp V8 and a 220-hp V8.

Independent coil-spring front suspension makes GMC ride almost like a car. The load is better cushioned and handling is easy at any speed. GMC pickups are great with camper backs.

Strachan Readies For Vote

● The government will be challenged for its "destructive parks policy, the ignoring of growing pollution of our air, land and water, its well-out of natural resources and its inadequate child welfare policies."

● It must be challenged on its tax policies, the lack of an agricultural policy and its failure to provide adequate help for the municipalities.

"This is a new age," said Mr. Strachan, dwelling upon the new NDP image.

INTERACTION

"There is an interaction between science and society which requires a planned effort to bring about a stable, evolving and creative society based on broadening social values.

"We can maintain prosperity, but only if we move deliberately forward with the planned application of basic principles—co-operation and progress sharing, not conflict, monopoly and coercion."

Check Urged For Old Cars

TORONTO (CP)—A coroner's jury has recommended that all motor vehicles more than seven years old have a compulsory mechanical inspection every year. The jury was investigating Thursday the death of William Stephens, 69, of Toronto who died March 13 after being struck by a driverless car that ran down hill. The car, a 1959 model, had done 56,000 miles.

Lions Clubs To Celebrate

Charter anniversary celebrations are to be held in Victoria today by three lower island Lions Clubs.

The three clubs are the Victoria Lions Club, 25 years; Esquimalt Lions, 15 years, and South Van Isle Lions, 13 years.

Speaker at a banquet Saturday will be Lions International vice-president David A. Evans.

Lost Dogs Call In

DETROIT (AP)—If you lose your dog in Detroit, just stick your finger in a telephone dial and flick off L-O-S-T-D-O-G. If you find a dog, do the same thing. The letters translate to 567-5364, and that's the number of the Michigan Humane Society's new lost and found information centre.

Pilot's Funeral

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. today for James A. McCallan, 25, pilot of a plane that crashed Sunday on the mainland.

Rev. Omer George Biddle will officiate at the service in McCall's chapel. Cremation will follow.

It's 'No' to New Borrowers

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

The local offices of one leading Canadian bank were informed this week they were to make no new loans outside established lines of credit, even if the loans were totally protected by securities.

"There is no more accommodation money for those looking for temporary cover on securities," said one of the bank's local managers. "We are not extending our lines of credit to anyone."

He added that the tight money situation was becoming tighter and there was no relief in sight.

"If anyone requires money, he will have to sell his security as far as this bank is concerned," he said.

Mortgage money is also hard to come by, although a representative of one of the larger national lending institutions doing business in Victoria said it was not as bad as Jean-Yves Gelinas, Montreal, president of the National Home Builders Association, suggested during a visit to Vancouver.

"Several institutions have mortgage money available, but it is true there is not sufficient to meet every demand," he said. "We are being selective."

EASTERN THREAT

Mr. Gelinas said that so far British Columbia was not suffering the shortage of mortgage money that in the East was "threatening many builders with ruin."

The Victoria representative said: "This is nonsense. Nearly all the national lending institutions are in the East. If they clamp down in the East they may also clamp in the West."

In most cases it is the speculative builder without sufficient equity who is being hit by the tightness of mortgage money.

5 PER CENT

He is not the type of risk that financial institutions are willing to accept at the present stage.

As a result a number of local construction jobs are hanging fire until some more money becomes available to them.

Current interest rate on a prime first mortgage is not less than 7 1/2 per cent and some companies are asking and getting 8 per cent.

LOOKING TO JETS

Another year of increased profits for Pacific Western Airlines Ltd. was forecast to shareholders at the annual general meeting in Vancouver, Friday.

R. H. Lakhman, president, said that 1965 had been the company's most successful and hopes were high that the expansion of service would continue through 1966.

The anticipated regional air policy now being considered by the government would be a matter of importance to PWA, which was the country's largest regional carrier.

As regional airports are improved and as additional routes become available to PWA, Mr. Lakhman said the company was preparing to make a move into jet planes some time in the future. He added that this would maximize profits and minimize costs for PWA.

COOPER FIND

Cahoon and Hecla, one of the larger U.S. mining companies on the big board of the New York Stock Exchange, rose $2 to a high of $63 1/2 in a brief trading interval Friday.

C and H was reported last week to have made a $5,000,000 copper find in Michigan and orders to buy the stock piled up to such a degree that the New York Stock Exchange suspended trading until further information was available.

It had not traded in five sessions until it was given a brief interlude Friday. It reopened in the fourth hour at $58 on 113,000 shares and it quickly soared to $63 1/2 before the exchange clamped down, re-imposing the trading suspension.

NEW BONDS

The Government of Canada will redeem its $325,000,000 3 1/2 per cent of May 1, 1966, and will offer three maturities—short, medium and long—to replace them.

The new terms will be 11 months, four years and three months.

Details of the issuing price will be made known Monday by the finance minister.

It is expected that the short term issue will be a continuation of the existing 4 per cent of April 1, 1967.

The medium term corresponds with the existing 5 per cent due July 1, 1970, and the long term fits in with the 5 1/2 per cent due Aug. 1, 1980.

If this prediction is correct, the new bonds may have to be marked "new" to identify them from the original issue in view of the fact that government securities issued after April 15, 1966, are free of withholding tax to foreign holders. This was one of the proposals included in this year's budget.

Ottawa Aid Soon For Aphid Battle

Resources Minister Ray Willison had been authorized to sign an agreement with the federal government for a combined attack against an infestation of the balsam woolly aphid in British Columbia.

A cabinet order Friday stated that Mr. Willison has been given permission to sign an agreement with federal Forestry Minister Maurice Sauvé.

The draft agreement indicates the federal government is willing to pay up to $150,000 on a 50-50 cost sharing plan for controlling the woolly aphid.

Deadlines for federal participation in the forestry scheme is March 31, 1967.

Under terms of the agreement, B.C. is to survey its woods to find how far the infestation has progressed, undertake a control program and contain spread of the disease through acquisition of balsam tree stock from commercial nurseries.

George H. Baillie, vice-president and director of Canadian Pacific Railway has been elected to the board of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada.

Canada Safeway in 1965 had sales of $400,235,263 and net income of $10,274,483.

SO WHO'S IN A HURRY?

If an investor is offered a fixed return on a debenture or preferred share investment, he's often told the conditions of the investment by the "increased earnings" or the "rapid expansion" of the company concerned—none of which provides him with any security at all.

As a matter of fact, too few investors have been persuaded by the largest single reason for bankruptcies over the years.

And as for so increased earnings are concerned, no benefit accrues to the debenture holders' credit, but only to the common shareholders.

Victoria Mortgages is granting too, like almost every company these days, but our director is not "in a hurry". Low-risk mortgages are selected that will stand up to any scrutiny.

OVER 95% OF OUR MORTGAGES ARE AGAINST SECURITY THAT INCLUDES WATERFRONT PROPERTIES. In addition, the company has substantial share capital and funds guaranteed by the B.C. Government.

Make sure your money is as soundly invested as Victoria Mortgages Debentures. There's no need to take greater risk than you need to take greater risk.

Peace Doves Scattered

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Hawks and the Doves fought it out on Wall Street Thursday. A group called "Youth Against War and Fascism" planned to picket the New York Stock Exchange Thursday. Counter-demonstrators, mostly young brokerage clerks, shelled the Doves with a few eggs and water-filled bags. Then, shouting "Bomb Hanoi," they charged. The Doves scattered.

Cockneys Worked Up

By JOSEPH MacSWEN
LONDON (CP) — The Cockneys seem to be getting mildly worked up over recent reports that London is the most "switched on" city in the world. Such talk by foreign commentators was in the air once again Friday, nourishing the idea among the Londoners that there is something distinctly eccentric about the foreigners.

Americans Seeing London Differently to Natives

who are forever seeing things in London that the natives fail to grasp.

The Cockneys, who are not themselves without the occasional sign of eccentricity, say it is peculiar they have seldom seen the fashion shops and discotheques that foreign reporters seize upon as evidence of a "with it" London.

NOT IN LIMEHOUSE
"As far as I know, there are no discotheques in Limehouse," said one Auburn-haired, short-skirted, Cockney barmid. The general local reaction to London-boasting stories seems to vary somewhere between guffaws and approval, with a pinch of scorn.

TRIFLE SHOCKED
Some of the intellectuals, particularly of left-wing outlook, are inclined to see the whole thing as a little thin while many ordinary folk may be a trifle shocked at stories of casinos and the like.

The tabloid Daily Mirror, which has the biggest newspaper circulation in the Western world, says in an editorial that a couple of foreign magazines (Time and France's Elle) are right in their current articles extolling London as a swinging spot.

After rolling around in the magazines' laudatory adjectives, the Mirror editorial writer says: "Lyrical? Yes. Truthful? Yes again. Look around. Think it over. Wake up to what is happening under your insular noses."

SHORT SKIRTS
"The short skirts, the swanky footwear, the kaleidoscopic oddities of youthful fashion, the Made in Britain look for fashion-conscious youngsters all over the world."

One feature of the whole discussion is that the astonishing significance attached to the length of girls' skirts, which has somehow come to symbolize Britain's new go-ahead attitude.

UP-TREND
While the length of women's skirts is always an interesting topic, many observers in Britain think it odd that the up-trend should be associated with any upsurge in, for instance, industrial progress.

Certainly Prime Minister Wilson, a Congregationalist, has never given any encouragement to the idea. And although his wife, Mary Wilson, may be as stylish as most women, she let cause Pat's skirt was "in-decent."

One London Telegraph columnist is so impressed with the foreign comment that he calls London "Anythinggoesville." But he claims that the American magazine really wasn't careful of facts because it referred in a newsmag to Belgrave Square, when posh Belgrave Square was meant.

This Hour Has 12 Months

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC will definitely continue next fall its controversial public affairs program, This Hour has Seven Days, but with some changes in key personnel a reliable informant said Friday.

Curtain to Fall On Opera's Famed Centre

NEW YORK (UPI)—With the dignity of an aging Victorian duchess, the Metropolitan Opera House gracefully will draw its gold curtains on 81 years of operatic history tonight.

The elegant dowager's swan song will be sung by 60 of the Metropolitan Opera Company's leading artists and will include selections from 35 operas.

Prompted by a sense of gracious tradition, the program will close with the final scene from Gounod's Faust. It was this immortal operatic tragedy which opened the Met on Oct. 22, 1883.

BOLSHOI NEXT
When the final chords of Faust echo through the ornate hall, the reason d'être for the Met's existence—opera—will be dead. True, the Bolshoi Ballet will move into the Met next Tuesday and the final musical performance in the house will not take place until May 9.

Warning—It'll Be In Writing

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—University of Southern California students Paul Liles and Jan Feltz have a unique system for communicating between their on-campus apartments—Teletype machines.

Liles, a loan radio operator, built the machines from surplus parts when his late night telephone calls to Miss Feltz annoyed her severely.

By Casino Bosom Lure Dropped

LAS VEGAS (UPI)—A casino here was expected to quietly drop its plan to use bare-bosomed blackjack dealers rather than risk the loss of its gambling licence.

Attorney-General Harvey Dickerson of Nevada said he would block any attempt by the Silver Nugget Casino to use bare-bosomed dealers to entice gamblers.

While Dickerson did not say the casino's gambling licence would be revoked, he indicated it would be in jeopardy. He also said he would seek a court injunction "to halt this affront to the decent and law-abiding citizens of Nevada."

JOB THREAT
Women dealers employed by the casino say they would lose their jobs unless they shed their top garments.

In Carson City, Nev., Edward Olsen, chairman of the Nevada Gaming Control Board, which is responsible for licensing gambling, said he thought the plan to use women dressed in see-through costumes would fall through.

Error Worth $1,100

A medical error at the Oakalla prison farm has cost the government $1,100 in the form of a grant to cover loss of wages by a former inmate.

Payment of the money to Ronald Kevin Murphy from the consolidated revenue fund was authorized Friday by a cabinet order.

Murphy injured his foot with an axe on Jan. 4, 1965, while clearing brushland with a prison work gang, when he was serving time at the Alouette River unit of the Oakalla prison farm.

He was released June 2, 1965, but later required further medical assistance to his foot, including an operation which was performed at no cost to himself.

The cabinet order stated: "It appears that conflicting medical opinion as to the extent and nature of the injury resulted in proper treatment not being administered until some time after the accident."

It indicated that Mr. Murphy was not able to accept full employment until Nov. 15, 1965, because he had been partially incapacitated.

The government denied any liability in the incident but said the grant was made as "a matter of grace" to Murphy, who claimed compensation for his temporary loss of earnings.

Kanester Trial Opposed

The Supreme Court of Canada will be asked by the attorney-general's department not to grant a new trial to Larry Kanester, who recently won a B.C. Court of Appeal ruling against a rape charge.

Kanester, in the B.C. Penitentiary at New Westminster awaiting disposition of the case, was served there Wednesday with a notice of the Crown's intent to appeal.

CONVICTION QUASHED
The Appeal Court quashed a conviction and a 10-year sentence which had been imposed on Kanester by the Assize Court for the rape of an 18-year-old University of Victoria student.

The new trial was granted by the Appeal Court because Kanester had not been allowed to cross-examine some Crown witnesses.

SECOND TRIAL
After his first conviction for the alleged offence, Kanester appealed, won a second trial, and was convicted again. The new trial, opposed by the Crown, would be his third.

Boys Band Plans Tag Day

The Victoria Boys' Band is trying to raise money for a return trip to the Junior Portland Rose Parade.

The band will hold its annual tag day May 31 in downtown Victoria, and in the Mayfair shopping centre.

The boys have won first place in the parade the last two years and are now competing for the Rose Bowl trophy for three consecutive wins.

Tips You Off

During the long time of zona border, Casa de Los Tesoros has excellent rooms and food and an unusually good gift shop of Mexican craft work. Funchal, Madeira, is one of them. The very best hotel charges $5 a day for room, three meals and a hearty afternoon tea.

You can live here for a lot less than that. It's a subtropical island off Africa. The people are Portuguese. Madeira wine and lace are the exports. Funchal is a city of 100,000 filled with flowers. (But I'd get rock happy if I had to live there more than a few months.)

"Interested in a week's comfortable vacation in Mexico and friends recommended Casa de Los Tesoros in Alamos..."

This is one of the very best in Mexico. Alamos was a rich mining town. The gone-to-seed mansions have been restored. It's an interesting town. About a day's drive from Nogales, Ari-sona border, Casa de Los Tesoros has excellent rooms and food and an unusually good gift shop of Mexican craft work. Funchal, Madeira, is one of them. The very best hotel charges $5 a day for room, three meals and a hearty afternoon tea.

"Any advice for driving in Spain?" Be sure the rent car has a jack—sometimes they don't. Spanish roads and Spanish tires don't agree. Learn to say "cooked in butter." They drench everything with olive oil. Spanish stomachs are used to it. Yours isn't. Drink bottled water. Sober is good. Wonderful countryside not much traffic.

"How can we rent a house in Mexico from here?" On newsmagazines, with foreign papers, get a copy of The Mexico City News—English language. Try the classified ads.

However, for people going anywhere to live for awhile, I think renting by mail—even with pictures—is like buying a mail-order bride. It's worthwhile spending the first week in a hotel and looking around.

"Would you recommend a stopover in Manila on our Orient trip?" I would—but a lot of people wouldn't. Manila needs some new hotels. (There's a Hilton going up for early next year.) There isn't too much tourist trade, and this is new and interesting country. In a few years people will be talking about "Manila in the good old days." So why not see it now.

"We would like to spend our second trip in Mexico in a small town with atmosphere and with comfortable and clean accommodations. How about Taxco?"

Not Taxco. Every tourist in Mexico runs through there. Two places I'd say—Morelia, north of Mexico City, or Oaxaca, south. Both pleasant Mexican towns with good countryside to explore. In Morelia stay at Villa Montana or Villa San Jose. In Oaxaca at Hotel Victoria or Oaxaca Courts.

"How can we rent a house in Mexico from here?" On newsmagazines, with foreign papers, get a copy of The Mexico City News—English language. Try the classified ads.

However, for people going anywhere to live for awhile, I think renting by mail—even with pictures—is like buying a mail-order bride. It's worthwhile spending the first week in a hotel and looking around.

"Would you recommend a stopover in Manila on our Orient trip?" I would—but a lot of people wouldn't. Manila needs some new hotels. (There's a Hilton going up for early next year.) There isn't too much tourist trade, and this is new and interesting country. In a few years people will be talking about "Manila in the good old days." So why not see it now.

"We would like to spend our second trip in Mexico in a small town with atmosphere and with comfortable and clean accommodations. How about Taxco?"

Not Taxco. Every tourist in Mexico runs through there. Two places I'd say—Morelia, north of Mexico City, or Oaxaca, south. Both pleasant Mexican towns with good countryside to explore. In Morelia stay at Villa Montana or Villa San Jose. In Oaxaca at Hotel Victoria or Oaxaca Courts.

"Any advice for driving in Spain?" Be sure the rent car has a jack—sometimes they don't. Spanish roads and Spanish tires don't agree. Learn to say "cooked in butter." They drench everything with olive oil. Spanish stomachs are used to it. Yours isn't. Drink bottled water. Sober is good. Wonderful countryside not much traffic.

This is Shambles, one of best-preserved medieval streets in Europe.

History-Studded City

York Knew Romans

By GORDON IRVING

YORK, England (CNS) — Learning from my window, I shook hands with the neighbor in the house across the street. The street is called Shambles. It is the street of the butchers, and one of the finest-preserved medieval streets in Europe.

The ancient houses on the street lean toward each other so that, on the upper floors, it is possible to shake hands across the street.

The Romans knew this city, which gave its name to New York, as Eboracum. It was the administrative capital of their northern outpost. For their army leaders it was the tactical headquarters of the Roman army's Sixth Legion.

The Emperor Hadrian, who built his famous Roman fortress wall across the northern boundary of England, lived here in the year 120.

The great glory of York is in its massive cathedral or minster, which presents one of the most perfect examples of perpendicular architecture in England.

It was built on the site of a 7th Century church, and has been damaged several times by fire. The present cathedral was built between 1230 and 1500, and is a mixture of medieval architecture styles.

The cathedral library houses 8,000 books and numerous valuable manuscripts.

Second only to Canterbury, in southeast England, as an ecclesiastical centre, York can boast of many churches and buildings of note, some with beautiful old glass.

Like other great old English cities with history, York has extensive city walls. As you drive into the city, you pass through the great stone gates or bars.

Yorkshire is the largest county in England. There are many scenic walks and climbs on the Yorkshire moors.

Garden Notes

Questions, Answers

Our second Cakelard Free Seed offer of 1956—seeds of the New Buttercrunch lettuce, seems to have sparked considerable interest among home gardeners everywhere. My desk is getting pretty cluttered with questions about this remarkable lettuce, and I think today I'd better try to clean up some of this mail.

Q.—Is Buttercrunch a head lettuce or a leaf lettuce? I don't care much for leaf lettuce.

A.—Buttercrunch is a butterhead type, which is sort of betwixt and between the head lettuce and leaf lettuce kinds. It doesn't make a hard, tight, cabbage-like head like Great Lakes or Iceberg, nor loose leaves like Grand Rapids or Salad Bowl, but forms a cluster of loosely folded leaves with thick, crisp, tender ribs and with the inner leaves blanched to a butter yellow, sweet and crunchy.

Q.—You say lettuce is a lime-lover; could you pinpoint this a bit more precisely? I have a Safford soil testing kit.

A.—Lettuce prefers a pH range of 6.5 to 7.5, and as pH 7 represents a neutral soil, neither acid nor alkaline, you'll see the most favorable range for lettuce is from very slightly acid to very slightly alkaline.

If clover thrives in your garden, chances are your soil is about right for lettuce and all leafy vegetables, as clover is also a lime-lover. On the other hand, if rhododendrons, azaleas and hollies do well in your garden, your soil is probably too acid for lettuce, and the vegetable plot, or at least the portion devoted to leafy vegetables, will require a generous dressing of garden lime, two to three cupsful per square yard.

Q.—In Arizona last winter I saw Limestone lettuce featured on the hotel menu at $2 per portion. Is this the same as the Kentucky Bibb you mentioned, and what connection does it have with your Buttercrunch lettuce?

A.—Kentucky Bibb and Limestone are two different names for the same lettuce, highly prized for salad enthusiasts for its delicate flavor and crisp texture, but extremely difficult to grow, hence the high price in hotels and restaurants.

Buttercrunch is what might be called a foolproof Limestone lettuce, developed by Dr. George Ralagah of Cornell

ERMA BOMBECK Gets a Shock

Phonomania Gets Ally

I predict that in a few years the mass identification of female babies will be simplified; they will be born with pink princess phones growing out of their ears.

The "phonomania" trend has been coming—bedroom phones for the crayon crowd, private listening for the Freud generation. And now there's a psychologist on their side.

***

In a national magazine, Ed LeShan has advised parents of young people to limit their own telephone calls to the morning hours so the youngsters want to use it.

She says phone conversations help youngsters fulfill their emotional needs, gain self-confidence and develop a sense of personal identity.

***

This statement gave our household quite a jolt. You see, when our children were small we shared with them the small problems our friends encountered over the use of their phones. (One couple we knew had the "run of the phone" from 4-8:30 a.m. weekdays, during the months with an R in them.)

It was dishonest, we know, but when our children were able to point out "phone" and "What is it?" we told them it was a cavity machine to check the cavities in your teeth.

(We also told them steak con-lined alcohol and made little children sick and got away with that until they were 30 years old, but this is another story.)

Naturally with a teen-ager in the house, our story began to leak holes and she discovered that by lifting the handle of the cavity mirror and dialing a few numbers she could be in touch with thousands of other cavity machines throughout the world. Our system had blown up on us.

How were we to know the phone was "serving as a bridge across the abyss of fear and unreadiness and, through its use, young people could prepare themselves for human relationships as adults"?

How were we to know that "teen-agers have more intense and satisfying relationships on the phone than they were able to have in person"?

How could we realize our daughter was asking for her identity? We didn't know it ourselves. What with translator wires coming out of one ear and telephone cords out of the other and food popping in and out of the mouth, we thought she was a toaster!

The exposure to the telephone was beginning earlier all the time, and the problem of who uses it, and when, becomes more acute. One woman even installed a phone booth in her kitchen for her personal use.

Sex and School

When the suffragette movement began here 50 years ago, it was a badly-needed blow for freedom and equality. Women's rights had been ignored and trampled for too long.

But a mistake that is usually made in such matters lies in confusing equality with identity. Women should have equal rights with men; this does not mean, however, that men and women have identical needs and abilities, or that they should be treated the same in all respects.

We are now learning, through high-level experiments in educational psychology that men and women have different learning aptitudes and different intellectual strengths and weaknesses in intellectual areas. All tests with school children seem to confirm these basic differences.

Girls, for instance, are ready for first-grade long before boys with them. The system of grading young children by ages, and ignoring congenital sexual differences, is a false egalitarianism that injures, distorts, and slows down the whole educational process.

It is no accident that five times as many boys as girls have in the early years, and require 'special corrective techniques'; nor that, in the later years, the girls find it harder to handle logical, mathematical and historical material. Any schooling that ignores these profound differences does more harm than good.

Barbra's Butler Enters on Cue!

By SHELLAH GRAHAM

LONDON (ANA) — Barbra Streisand "said 'Right we go to the drawing room!'" and kept the way out "flashed up from the elegant study on the ground floor of her flat in Belgravia. "You will have tea, of course," she murmured, and as though on cue the butler entered with a silver tea service, atop a trolley with little Sandwiches and cakes. "Personally, I'd rather have a Coke," giggled Barbra when the butler left. "This morning I decided I'd have avocado toast and a lobster tail. It's just what I need." "It's expensive, too," the butler told her. "It's worth it," she said. "I'm from Brooklyn." She is paying $1,500 a month. "And it doesn't even have a shower." But the butler and the cook are included, and it is all terribly grand.

Miss Streisand opens here this week in her New York musical hit, Funny Girl, in which she plays the late Ziegfeld star, Fanny Brice. "I'm more nervous than if I were doing a new play. It's serious here." She is a worrier, and is concentrating on the imminent ordeal of the first night.

"I like English food. I don't like French food, too rich. I love the English, they're so amused at money," she said. "Because someone said I was the highest-paid performer in the world, everytime they write about me they call me that." "Are you?" I wondered. "Yes, I am," she admitted. I mentioned Elizabeth Taylor and Sammy Davis. "No, I am paid more," "The Beatles?" "No, I get as much for me, one person, as they do for the four. I did a concert tour 30 nights. For this I made $1,000,000, as much as Elizabeth Taylor receives. But she has to spend three to five months on a picture to make a million. I did it in less than three weeks."

Barbra's engagement for Funny Girl in London is for three months. She will finish in mid-June, then after filming another TV show in color, here, she goes to Hollywood to make the movie version. "I have never made a film. I might also do the movie of The Owl and the Pussycat. I'll have a problem in Hollywood with the hours. I don't get up before noon, and I can't leave the house before two." It's more assailable in Europe where they film from noon until seven or eight. Only Frank Sinatra has been able to do this in Hollywood.

Miss Streisand's first television spectacular, My Name Is Barbra, was as acclaimed in England as it was earlier in the season in North America where they have now seen her second TV special Color Me Barbra—the initial order for the album was 500,000. "I've been seeing plays. I was really inspired by the National Theatre—Love for Love, and A Flea in Her Ear. It inspired me to act."

Pacific rescue zone

Rapid Rescue Speeded By Computer

A newly-installed rescue system took less than 15 minutes to pinpoint six ships in the Pacific Coast search area when tested at the Rescue Coordination Centre in Vancouver Friday.

Testing of the equipment marked entry of the centre into the U.S. Coast Guard Automated Merchant Vessel Reporting System which obtains rescue information through a computer in New York.

The centre sent out a request for ship's location at noon and by 12:15 p.m. positions and destinations of six ships in the region were flashed back via the Coast Guard office in Seattle.

Through the new system the centre will be able to direct distressed aircraft to a ship or direct the closest rescue ship to a ship in distress.

The rescue system works through ships radiating their positions into the centre. These positions and destinations are then fed into the computer which in turn predicts the ships' positions at any given time.

At present the system includes Canada, the U.S., New Zealand, Australia, Japan and the U.K. as well as some South American and Communist bloc countries. Eventually it is hoped to put the system on a world-wide basis.

Rocket Group Encouraging Model Sport

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian Association of Rocketry has been formed to encourage the sport of model rocketry on a national basis, the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association announced Friday.

It is a direct result of the lifting of the government ban on the launching of small model rockets propelled by solid-fuel pre-manufactured motors, effective April 30.

The rocketry association was formed at the request of the explosives division of the federal mines and technical surveys department and is sponsored by the flying clubs association.

Uganda Installs Obote President

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—The Uganda Parliament Friday approved a new constitution and Premier Milton Obote was sworn in as the country's new president. Radio Kampala reported. The new constitution will concentrate power in the hands of the central government and greatly reduce the authority of the regional legislatures.

People Throwing Away More

Garbage Climbing to 25,000 Tons

By A. H. MURPHY

Do you know how much garbage they will haul away from this city in 1966? About 25,000 tons, that's how much.

And garbage is lighter than it used to be—lighter and bulkier. That's because in the old days people used to burn papers and other flammable matter in furnaces and kitchen stoves. Now with oil and electricity they have no way of getting rid of it.

TEEN BIG TRUCKS

It's quite a problem garbage haulers face. Last year 10 big trucks and a number of smaller utility vehicles picked up 176,133 cubic yards of the stuff.

And each year you can add about five per cent more. Not only are there more people in the city but they are living better, it seems, and have more to throw away.

It cost the city $261,502 to dispose of garbage—about $2.17 a ton—of which $53,860 was paid out for hauling.

But it's not all loss. Special pick-ups from stores and apartment buildings, for which there is a charge, brought in $53,665.

30 MILES A DAY

The next time your garbage man calls, take a look at him. He's something of an athlete. He walks about 20 miles a day and heaves a couple of tons of rubbish and it's not just everybody who can do the job. He makes about 2,500 calls in a five-day week and he and his 44 colleagues are kept pretty busy covering the city.

Bert James, who handles this service for the city's public works department, says it costs the municipality about 28½ cents a call—much less than it used to.

KNOW RAISED BILLS
Abnormal spring snow in Norway this year cost city and state authorities more than $3,000,000 to clear.

TRANSFER DEPOT.

The loaded trucks drive to what is politely known as the "transfer depot" and more commonly known as the "garbage wharf" at the western extremity of Herald Street.

There the refuse is dropped or pushed into openings beneath which are stationed the huge trailers that haul the garbage to the Hartland Road dump in Saanich where it is burned or covered.

About eight loads, each one containing 100 cubic yards of garbage, are taken to the dump every day. On arrival at Hartland Road the trailers are emptied by means of an arm, cable and winch arrangement.

Dumping is quite a chore but an unexpected danger is that the big trailers when upended can be crashed over on their side by the wind which catches them like a sail.

STICKY TOPIC

Garbage has always been a sticky topic in Victoria. For years it was hauled out to sea on barges. This was the cheapest method of disposal, about half of the present cost, but inevitably a lot of it came back in on the tide and orange-peel strewn beaches were good ammunition for those who advocated some other method.

The suggestion that it be used for sanitary fill in the then-brickyard area where Mayfair Shopping Centre now stands evoked a storm of protest from nearby residents and that plan was killed.

FELL APART

And then one day about eight years ago the burners at the depot and other machinery used for disposal all fell apart, weary after years of use, and within six hours public works made arrangements to have the rubbish hauled away.

And so it has been ever since.

The Victoria chapter of the Architects' Institute of B.C. has added its voice to those of a number of city organizations which are anxious to see the Dowell Building spared.

Religious Painting Attacked

Someone has something against religious fence art. Two city youths Friday complained that three men painted over a crucifixion scene they had done on the fence surrounding the new provincial museum.

Dave Coles and Bruce Waters, both 18 and students at Victoria High School, said the men called the painting "sacriligious" and claimed they had the plywood panel reserved.

The youths, who have done two other panels, said the men had already painted six panels between them.

They also said passerby make disparaging remarks about the religious scene.

They'll be back at it this morning.

Injured Boy Still Critical

Hospital officials reported no change in the critical condition of five-year-old Gary Fenwick, 5105 Cordova Bay Road, following an accident Wednesday when the boy ran in front of a cement truck.

The lad suffered fractures to his skull, jaw and left leg and is in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Members of the Servers' Guild of Christ Church Cathedral are holding a 30-cent car wash on the cathedral parking lot all day today in order to finance a trip for their 40 members to Spokane, Wash.

The guild has been invited to be guests of St. John's Cathedral, Spokane, for the May 20-22 weekend, and hopes to use the car wash money to rent a charter bus.

Five Cases Of TB Discovered

Operation Doorstep mobile tuberculosis clinics have turned up five active TB cases after checking through about 65,000 persons in Greater Victoria.

Also discovered were five significant lung tumors and five complications following influenza. Three more suspected TB cases are undergoing further tests and about 200 more persons have been referred for further medical investigation.

Medical director Dr. C. C. McLean says the incidence of non-tuberculous chest disorders in Victoria is "higher than we had expected."

"This is because the average age is more than 50 and in this group we find more than half of all chest conditions," he said. Next week units will be in the Gordon Head area.

Big Party To Relive Gold Rush

Tonight is the night in Sidney — Klondike Night, that is.

Northern Saanich Peninsula's biggest party of the year starts at 8 p.m. in Saanich Hall at Sidney, as the colorful era of the Gold Rush Days is relived.

There will be dancing, games of chance, ranging from roulette to crown and anchor; wheels of fortune, and a floor show featuring costumed girls.

This will be the fifth annual Klondike Night staged by the association, with all proceeds going for further improvements to the community centre, the spokesman said.

Publicity Trip Pays Off

The recent publicity and promotion trip to California, organized by B.C. Ferry Authority and attended by a group of Victoria businessmen, is already beginning to pay dividends, according to Aid. Geoffrey Edgelow, who represented the city on the jaunt.

He has been written by a California family who will spend their holidays here as a direct result of a contact formed on the trip.

"And I expect this is only one of many who will follow," said Aid. Edgelow.

The trip was well organized and carried out but it was not easy. Apart from interviews and publicity, members of the party were obliged to attend as many as three meetings and speaking engagements a day.

"There is no doubt that California is becoming conscious of us and I think we can expect a big increase in tourist business from there," Aid. Edgelow said.

Solarium Show

Metropolitan Board

Health Costs To Get Airing

A recommendation that the mayor and area Reeves discuss the status of the Metropolitan Board of Health with health minister Eric Martin will probably be considered next week, city manager Dennis Young said Friday.

The health board motion, urging the interview, carried a rider that in the event the municipal leaders failed to arrange the meeting, the board would go ahead with its own plan to confront the minister and ask him to establish a new constitution for the board based on equal per capita payments for all its components.

At present the municipalities of Greater Victoria pay on the basis of $2 per person while Saanich and Central Saanich pay on a per capita basis of 40 cents. The question will be considered by the health and morals committee of city council at which time aldermen will get a chance to express their views.

On several occasions aldermen have expressed dissatisfaction with the co-operation received from the board by the city, its chief financial supporter.

Fast Time Starts Soon

The sun is coming up a little earlier every day and people are beginning to wonder when Daylight Saving Time starts.

It begins officially at 2 a.m. April 24, a Sunday morning. That is when you are supposed to move your clock ahead one hour. Daylight Saving Time will end at 2 a.m. Oct. 29.

Apology to Mother Cecilia

On Friday, March 25, The Daily Colonist published an article under the heading "Sister Mary Ursula Leaves Good Shepherd Shelter," which contained several statements adversely reflecting upon the character of Mother Cecilia and upon the work carried out by the Good Shepherd Shelter Foundation at Mill Bay.

The Daily Colonist would like to state that the opinions expressed in the article were not those of this newspaper and to publicly offer its apology to Mother Cecilia for the embarrassment which the article in question caused her, and for any inference contained therein which may have tended to impugn her person and reputation or be detrimental to the work upon which she is engaged.

Freighter 28 Years Old

Skipper to Have Old Tramp Prettied Up

By BOB PETHICK
She may not be the prettiest ship in the world, or the fastest, but to her captain the 28-year-old Helene, now at Ogden Point, is as good as the day she was built—and as reliable.

Capt. H. I. Douris has his reasons for feeling this way. "In those days they took time to build ships and put in better materials," says the Greek-born captain who makes his home in England.

To back this up he says the ship's former owners, Kukulundis Company, had three sister ships built at the same yard, Short Bros. in England.

"They are all still running perfectly," he said. From the breakwater the elderly vessel looks very much like a rust bucket taking on a load of lumber, but with more time coming up in port the crew will soon be at work with chipping hammers and paint tidying her up.

On her voyage, starting at Casablanca, the ship has been at sea for 65 days with only two days in port.

The 31-year-old captain has strong feelings about older ships. He served for the first time as skipper aboard a ship that was built in 1938.

"And she was even stronger than this one," he said. The 10,000-ton freighter is ideal for hauling lumber because of the way her cargo holds are arranged and she is economical to run, he says.

"We burn about 20 tons of fuel a day compared with a Liberty ship which will burn 25 to 28 tons." The captain contends that faster, more modern ships have to slow way down in bad weather to avoid damage.

Modern ships damage more easily, he said with a shrug of the shoulders.

"But this," he said pointing around him then clenching his fists, "she is strong and we don't slow down, we don't have to."

How many million miles she has steamed in her lifetime would be difficult to calculate. "Many, many," he said.

She visited Victoria 10 years ago as the Helene Kukulundis. She is a tramp steamer. She picks up her cargo where she finds it.

This last voyage began in Casablanca with a cargo of phosphate for China, then to Japan where she turned over to her charter firm, then to B.C. in ballast. From Victoria she goes to Port Alberni and Tahsis, then to U.K. with her lumber cargo.

There the captain will get leave to see his English wife after six months away from home.

Where will they go from U.K.? The captain shrugs his shoulders. Maybe carrying grain to U.K. from the east coast of Canada. "Who knows?" he says.

But at least he can be sure of this much. When he rings for speed the old engines will be sure to give him what he wants and the blunt old bow will continue to butt water out of the way as it has done for 28 years.

Wed Up-Island

CHEMAINUS — St. Michael's And All Angels' Church in Chemainus was the setting for a pretty spring wedding when the Rev. W. J. Hill united in marriage Donna Louise, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Buchner of Beach Drive, Chemainus, and Robert Joseph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grouhel of Walker Road, Ladysmith.

Best man was Mr. Grant Horwood of Nanaimo. Mr. James Buchner, Jr., brother of the bride, and Mr. George Fredrickson were ushers.

A reception followed at the Royal Canadian Legion hall where the centre of attraction on the bride's table was a three-tiered wedding cake nestled in pink tulle, sprigs of lavender and flanked on either side by tall pink tapers in silver holders.

Mr. Russell Neff proposed the toast to the bride and Mr. Denis Carfield, uncle of the bride, was master of ceremonies.

For a wedding trip to Radium Hot Springs, the new Mrs. Grouhel chose a three-piece pink suit and white accessories. On their return the newlyweds will reside in Ladysmith.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 13-year-old girl with a father problem. I've always been overweight. The school nurse says I should lose 20 pounds. I've tried, but I can't do it. My father has nagged me and made my life miserable over this subject for as long as I can remember.

Last night my uncle and aunt were here. I was drying the dishes when dad called me into the living room. He had the bathroom scale in the middle of the floor. He said to my uncle:

"Guess how much she weighs." My uncle wouldn't guess so my dad said, "She weighs 128 pounds. Then he told me to step on the scale and prove it."

My mother came in just then and told me to go back to the kitchen. I heard her tell my father he should not embarrass me like that. He has done this before and he knows it hurts my feelings but he won't stop. I need your help. — ASHAMED

Dear Ashamed: It's too bad your dad doesn't realize that his nagging will not persuade you to lose an ounce. It will only make you eat more.

Ask your mother to take you to a doctor. He will prescribe a sensible diet. You CAN knock off those extra pounds and I hope you will. Your teen years will be a whole lot happier and healthier.

Dear Ann Landers: You can't believe how much trouble a monthly check for $38 can cause in a family. This is what my

Healing Explained In Book

Differences between spiritual healing and current methods of psychotherapy and psychosomatic medicine are explained in the book, A Century of Christian Science Healing to be published this month. J. N. Murdoch of the Victoria committee on publication said Friday.

The book is one of several projects marking the centennial of the Christian Science Church. Centennial activity will come to a focus at the annual meeting in Boston on June 6.

WILL ATTEND
Mr. Murdoch said a number of Greater Victoria church members will attend the meeting on an individual basis.

The centennial stems from events in 1886 which marked the turning point in the life of Mary Baker Eddy and began her pioneering of a world religious movement.

The book will provide a chronicle of the development of spiritual healing, based on church records.

FALLING APPLE
The healing of a severe injury in 1886 was, in Mrs. Eddy's own words, "the falling apple that led me to the discovery." The healing occurred as she read one of Jesus' parables in Matthew's gospel, and the experience began to put a new light on everything she knew as a Christian.

She later wrote the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, and founded a church which now includes 3,300 branches in more than 50 countries.

16-ACRE CENTRE
Other highlights of the centenary are construction of an expanded 16-acre centre at the Mother Church in Boston and changes in the graphic design of church publications.

Another feature was a talk by Erwin D. Canham, editor-in-chief of The Christian Science Monitor, which was heard in the Victoria Church March 17 by live transmission direct from the Queen Elizabeth Theatre in Vancouver.

Church Offers Bible Course

Victoria householders are being given the opportunity to take a free six-lesson Bible course by correspondence.

This week householders received in their mail a booklet with a dramatic purple cover marked Lesson 1, Man's Guilt.

The lessons are being offered by Victoria Church of Christ, 3460 Shelbourne.

"Does the Bible speak to you today?" asks a covering letter from the church's minister, Jim Hawkins.

"Only you can answer that," the letter continues, "and in order to answer it, you need to know as much as possible about what the Bible says."

"A closed Bible cannot bring a message. An open Bible can show the way to happiness and personal peace. We—the members of the churches of Christ—believe it is the only source of religious authority for modern man, and it has a message for you today."

The six free lessons are titled Man's Guilt, Christ the Answer, Man's Response to Christ, Christ and His Word, Christ and His Church, Christ our Master.

The first lesson "analyzes the cause and the consequences of sin and presents the only valid answer to this universal human condition."

It assigns Bible readings followed by 20 questions to be answered and sent to the Victoria church.

Answers will be graded and returned with the second lesson.

Humanists, Catholics Open Formal Talks

This weekend in The Netherlands the first formal dialogue between the Humanist and Catholic churches is taking place.

Tolbert H. McCarroll, executive director of the American Humanist Association at Yellow Springs, Ohio, is the only North American participant in the talks at a Catholic centre for adult education in the city of Amsterdam.

The two subjects under discussion are a dialogue on man and the world and communication in a pluralistic society. Pope Paul VI established the Secretariat for Non-believers last year, largely as a result of the spirit generated by the encyclical Pacem in Terris issued by John XXIII.

Humanists are nontheists who aim at the fullest possible development of each human being. They presuppose man's sole dependence on social and natural resources and acknowledge no supernatural power.

Theologian Defended God's 'Wrath'

Can We Go It Alone?

Living God Still Sovereign

By A. G. FARADAY
Chaplain (P) BCN
God is dead. This stark and harsh sentence has raced around the world. It is not a new sentence. Nietzsche was the first to use it.

Nietzsche depicted the common man, denied Christianity and advocated the Supreme State and The Master Race. It is truly said that he was the father of two world wars.

Surprisingly this sentence — God is dead — is used today by a few respected and professed theologians. This is the shocker that has roused the entire scholastic and reading world. What are these men trying to say to us?

NO RELATIONSHIP
In part, this is what they are attempting to say. To them the modern organized structure of society lives and has its being with no relationship whatsoever to the person of God. Society does not seek God nor does it obey His precepts. To modern society as a whole, God is dead.

They go on to say that the organized church is in the same hostile of fish as the state.

WITHOUT HEAD
As church, state and society attempt to perpetuate themselves as organized bodies, they begin to feel they can do it alone without need to the living God. A divine conscience is an uncomfortable thing as it was in the days of Nietzsche.

The changing church in a changing world confesses the tendency in the past to perpetuate the religion of the Pharisees and Sadducees, as the state perpetuates nationalism.

ORGANIZATION
The church also confesses putting too much faith in the organization rather than the living organism of the Body of Christ.

We sometimes worship a god of our own making rather than the living God, the creator and Father of us all.

IN PRISON CELLS
The living God is best seen in prison cells as He opposes any encroachment on His authority. The apostle Paul from his prison cell in Rome wrote encouraging letters to the churches, proclaiming the sovereignty of the living God over all His creation. John Bunyan refused to bow to the dictates of the state in regard to worship. The state arrested and imprisoned him but he wrote the Pilgrim's Progress, declaring again the sovereignty of the living God.

OPPOSED HITLER
Rev. Dietrich Bonhoeffer opposed Hitler and was to be sent into prison. He wrote his famous letters from prison, once more declaring God's sovereignty. Hitler in a rage ordered him to be hanged but his letters still encouraged the church to be the church.

Dr. Martin Luther King, cast into prison in Alabama wrote his famous sermon, "Give us political and church leaders with hard heads and soft hearts, rather than soft heads and hard hearts," and declared the living God's purpose for mankind.

TEARS SAME COLOR
The blood and tears of mankind are of the same color, regardless of race and too much blood has been spilled, too many tears shed because of man's continued denial of the authority of the living God.

The god of our image and making is dead. The living God still speaks through His son and His servants as they oppose the injustices and untruths imposed on man by a sick society.

Sale to Aid Mission Work
A White Elephant sale will be held at Hill Memorial School, 1462 Hillside, at 7:45 p.m. today. Home baking, garden produce, bedding plants and refreshments will also be sold at the fund-raising project to aid the mission field of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. (Visitors, Inc., the film has been 80th birthday next month. But Brunner's work will rank with Barth's as a monumental contribution to the task of making Christianity intelligible to modern man.

Like Barth, Brunner was called a "neo-orthodox" theologian. He sought new ways of expressing the Christian faith, so that no one would be needlessly put off by "language and concepts which are mere human primitiveness and superstition."

But Brunner, in contrast to some theologians who've attracted attention recently, was unwilling to jettison basic Christian doctrines just because they run counter to prevailing attitudes.

Brunner believed the authentic Christian gospel will always be what St. Paul called it — "A scandal" — to men who try to reason their way to a knowledge of God.

"God reveals himself in history, and cannot be found by man's own thinking," he said.

Honest Testimony
Brunner knew the idea of a special historical revelation offends many intellectuals who feel that God could never be so arbitrary as to focus His self-disclosure in a particular time, place or person.

But he said Christians must talk about historical revelation if they are to give honest testimony to the facts of their own experience.

"God Himself present with us, dwelling amongst us, speaking to us, in the unity or revealing person and revealed person... that is what the New Testament Gospel preaches. In Jesus Christ, we encounter the holy and marvellous God in person. The one who is faced by Jesus Christ is faced by the absolute authority, claiming man for himself in the totality of his being."

Link Destroyed
Brunner did not hesitate to use such currently-unfashionable terms as "sin" and "the wrath of God."

"Sin is not merely the transgression of a divine law, the destruction of an order which God has established and sustained," he wrote. "There things are true of sin, but they are not sin itself. Sin is the destruction of communion with God, the dissolution of the personal link which binds God and man together."

God's reaction to human sin is described in the Bible as "wrath."

"The word sounds unbearably harsh in the ear of modern man," Brunner acknowledged.

Wrath of God
"If we understand it properly, it has nothing to do with primitiveness, with naive anthropomorphism. On the contrary, it is the necessary expression of God, taking himself and us seriously. He takes us so seriously that our changed attitude with regard to him produces a change in his attitude towards us. If it were not so, it would mean that our action, our disposition, is nothing to God, and that would mean that we are nothing to him, that he does not love us."

But although the wrath of God is a reality, it is not God's last word. The "essence" of God is love, and this love is expressed in mercy and forgiveness, which is available to every man at the first moment that he seeks it. This is the central message of the cross of Christ.

Ultimate Reality
"The wall of partition which stands between God and man as the consequence of sin is a reality for God as well as for us. But it is the ultimate reality. We must not deny its reality because it is not ultimate, but on the other hand we must not doubt the divine mercy because it is not ultimate, but on the other hand we must not doubt the reality of the wrath of God, which wishes not the death of the sinner but that he repent!"

Although Brunner vigorously affirmed the Biblical view of God and man, he was anything but a fundamentalist in his attitude toward the scriptures. He said modern techniques of criticism have made clear that no part of the Bible — not even the New Testament gospels — may be regarded as an infallible record of historical events.

Faith Unshaken
"It is a curious thing, however," he said, "that recognition of this fact has not been able to shake the Christian faith of some of the most critical of historians. The Jesus who encounters us in these fragmentary and precarious traditions is for them, as he always was, Christ, the son of God, the God-man, and the uncertainty of historical knowledge as such does not alter the fact that faith in him carries with it absolute certainty."

The magazines are both published twice a month on alternate weeks.

Asked what she got out of being a Witness, Mrs. Bednars said: "We are giving people a chance to gain everlasting life through a knowledge of the Bible. We get the satisfaction of loving our neighbors as ourselves and obeying God's commands as contained in His word."

Witnesses is Mrs. Helena Bednars of 304 Gull Road.

She has been a Witness since she was nine years old when she attended their services in England.

She takes her turn at standing on street corners and participating in services in the churches, as all Witnesses do.

"We are all ministers of the church," she said. "To be a Witness you have to witness to your neighbor and tell him about God's kingdom."

"You don't join, you become a Witness when you do this," she added.

Awake is a magazine of current events, she said, published in New York in 26 languages with a circulation of almost 4,500,000. The Watchtower is a magazine of Biblical articles which are studied in the church. It is published in 70 languages and has a circulation of almost 5,000,000.

Atonement Subject At First Church

Doctrines of Atonement will be the subject at First Church of Christ Scientist in Victoria Sunday.

Bible passages will focus on Jesus' parable of the prodigal son, Luke 15, and end with his statement, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me."

Related readings from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, will include these lines: "Like our Master, we must depart from material sense into the spiritual sense of being... This is having part in the atonement; this is the understanding in which Jesus suffered and triumphed."

CHEAP!

What does it take to make a GOOD DEAL for YOU?

Hopeful Claims and counter-claims? Singers, Actors and

What makes a deal GOOD?

It is the condition of

of the price you pay... the kind of trade-in allowance you get. This is why we don't cheat the owner with a lot of thems, smart signals and clever thoughts... but instead use the simple (and most honest) Advertising Appeal of all... "USED

Particularly Canada U.S. Exports To Subsidiaries A Major Factor

By ARCH MACKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—United States exports to subsidiaries abroad are a major and growing element in American trade, particularly in Canada, latest government figures show.

U.S. foreign investment appears to offer built-in assurance of better export opportunities, with some qualifications, it is implied in the second analysis conducted by the office of business economics of the commerce department on that subject.

Redfish To Try Great Lakes

TORONTO (CP)—Little Redfish, a freshwater native of British Columbia, is being enlisted in the campaign to revitalize the Lake Ontario and Lake Huron fisheries. He'll get a four-year trial.

The kokanee salmon, a variety of sockeye, has been chosen for planting in Ontario because it is the one salmon that has adapted to freshwater existence.

Like the sockeye, it spawns in streams and lake shores in fall and early winter with the young fish moving into open water areas of lakes in spring. Unlike the sockeye, however, the kokanee remains in the lake system its entire life while the sockeye leaves for the ocean after one year.

BIG PLANTINGS

Some 1,500,000 kokanee eggs were brought from British Columbia last November. Half were sent to the fisheries research station at Glenora, south-west of Belleville, for planting in Lake Ontario. The remainder went to the Chateaufort hatchery near Owen Sound for Lake Huron planting.

Arrangements were made for a second shipment of eggs to Colorado and Montana. This variety of kokanee spawns later in the year than those from B.C.

Regarded as a fine table fish with rich red flesh that is good either fresh or smoked, the kokanee gets its nickname from its color at spawning time. It loses its silvery appearance and turns a bright red with a greenish head.

REACH 15 INCHES

If suitable spawning areas are found, the fish is usually present in large numbers and catches of 30 kokanee a day by anglers are not uncommon in the West.

In native waters the kokanee is often small at maturity but the same stock planted elsewhere has attained lengths of 18 inches and more. Ontario fisheries experts will be happy if they reach 15 inches.

The department of fisheries has hastened to assure fishermen that the kokanee project won't interfere with the stocking of lake trout or the program for controlling lampreys, the parasite eels that attach themselves to fish with their sucker-like mouths.

EELS PROBLEM

It hopes the kokanee will be unharmed by the lampreys, which has ravaged the Great Lakes fisheries, because it spawns before reaching a size attractive to the eels.

About half the eggs received from B.C. were planted in selected sites in Lake Ontario streams and in streams on the Bruce Peninsula, Georgian Bay and Manitoulin Island. The rest were to be planted as fry in late winter and early spring.

Young Chinese Die in Storm

MACAO (AP)—Fifteen young Chinese trying to escape from China were drowned when their boat capsized April 5 in a storm 20 miles northeast of this Portuguese colony on the China coast, fishermen reported Friday.

The fishermen said a fishing junk from Macao picked up 11 survivors—10 boys and a girl.

Short Hair, Neat Suits Distinguish Staccatos

By ANN RUEBOTTOM

OTTAWA (CP)—"Of all the rock 'n' roll groups, we've got the shortest hair."

That's the playful reply of Vern Craig when asked what makes the Staccatos distinctive.

Not only that. Their dark, custom-tailored suits are so tasteful that you could bring the four Ottawa boys home to meet your parents with no fear at all. That is if they had time between engagements at nightclubs, recording studios, television shows and tours.

FIRST ALBUM

The Staccatos have just released their first album. Current popularity polls here show they are the only Canadians with an album among the top five pop artists.

They feel this is some record since, as Vern says, "you can only go so far in Canada because Canadians don't look up to us unless you've made it somewhere else—look at Paul Anka, or Rich Little, or Lorne Greene."

NEW BREED IS FICKLE

But it's a risky business. As lead guitarist Brian Radey says: "Kids are fickle. It's hard to follow the trend of what kids are buying. You can't tell what they want. And there are so many groups, you have to make one good record or you'll get lost in the shuffle. Every year there's a new breed of teenagers. You'll never be up there long."

TALENT, WORK, LUCK

Les gauges it to be "a combination of how good you are, how hard you work, and a lot of good luck."

Since the group was formed 1½ years ago and recorded "It Isn't Easy," they haven't looked back.

Their beginnings were humble. All four can remember having to borrow instruments at the start.

Vern Craig was a government clerk working eight hours a day and then playing rhythm guitar for five hours a night. He and tenor guitarist Brian Radey, also a government clerk, gave up their jobs for music.

GAMBLE PAYS OFF

With drummer Rick Bell and later Les Emmerson, they took the plunge.

RARE PRACTICE

The group also records at its own expense, then sells the master tapes to a recording company. This is an unusual practice among musicians but it gives them more freedom to work at their own pace.

Another feature of the Staccatos is that they get along well together. "In other groups, they're always at each other's throats," says Les. Rick says with a wry grin, "We're well twisted."

Their long-term dream is to buy a club. To this end, they are saving and investing all they can.

Exchanges To Go

Victoria's telephone directory system is to be changed by the end of the year to eliminate the familiar EV and GR exchanges. Instead, the numerals will be substituted—33 and 47. Changes will be made in the December issue of the directory.

Lumber Slides, Kills Worker

PORT ALBERNI — A deckload of lumber let go with a thundering roar, causing the death of one man and injuring five other longshoremen Friday morning at Somers Dock, Port Alberni.

Shortly before 11 a.m. the deckload let go on the largest lumber load ever to enter here. More than half the load was reported to have gone over the side carrying with it one man and injuring five others.

Missing and believed drowned is Arthur Dube, 33, of 821 Princess Avenue in Alberni. Fellow longshoremen reported seeing Mr. Dube go over the side into the water with the lumber.

One reported seeing the missing man come to the surface briefly, through the floating lumber and then vanish. The ship, the 15,863-ton Archangel, is of Liberian registry, under charter to London, England, shipbrokers. The master is Capt. K. Teller.

Harbormaster Don Brunk said the large vessel first entered Port Alberni March 26, took on a partial load, went to Crofton for further loading and returned to Port Alberni for "topping off."

ROCKED BACK
Longshoreman, employed on the loading said that the vessel first keeled towards the water and then back towards the dock.

This is said to have saved many more workers from injury. When the ship tipped back for the second time large pieces of lumber split like matchsticks.

BOOMS FLYING
Longshoreman George Kootenay, said booms, lines and lumber were all flying.

The cool head of a "Sharky" Schwartz prevented additional injuries. Kootenay said Schwartz ignored the lumber and flying lines and continued to give instructions.

"Sharky" just stood there and kept bawling to the guys to get out of the ship. When he saw Andy Poirier about to go over the side he caught him and held him," Mr. Kootenay said.

INJURED

Jim Hamilton of 385 River Road was detained in hospital with head injuries.

Valley Smog Theme Not Commissioned

By MARY TAYLOR

Port Alberni art student Martin Segger could only have been joking when he told Victoria newsmen that he was painting the smog of the Alberni Valley. We really have a beautiful valley, Alberni art council president, Robert Aller, Friday.

"I am sure he must have been joking to Victoria newsmen," said Mr. Aller.

"Such statements could ruin our planned three-day art festival and tourist industry here. We really have a beautiful valley," Mr. Segger had been instructed by the Community Arts Council of Port Alberni to paint the Alberni Valley on the fence surrounding the new provincial museum building construction in Victoria.

"I never said anything about smog or smoke," said Mr. Aller. The painting may show the industry of the valley and a couple of smoke stacks but certainly not the smog, he said.

Found by Brother Man Safe On Island

GANGES (CP)—A Richmond man given up as lost after his empty boat was found washed ashore in the Gulf Islands was found Friday alive and well on Prevost Island in the Strait of Georgia.

Gary Erda, aged 35, was found by his brother Robert.

Robert persisted in his search for his brother even though an official air-sea rescue search was called off earlier this week after Gary's boat was found washed ashore and upright on an island.

Arion, Rotary Groups Choir Concert Powerful

By JERRY BOULTREE

The 74-year-old Arion Male Choir and the Rotary Boys' Choir joined forces Friday night for a concert at St. John's Memorial Hall.

Two hundred people filled the hall to hear the choirs offer renditions of everything from operatic arias to Handel church music to the most essentially frivolous Hippopotamus Song.

Conductor of the Arions was Frank Tupman and William Hastings filled the same post for the boys' choir.

Except for five songs, the choirs alternated their singing. On these occasions when they did sing as a single choir — with a total of perhaps 80 voices — there was a warm and powerful blend ranging from high soprano to deep bass.

The entire program was good, with well-chosen songs interspersed in such a way that they each set off the other to best advantage. It provided good contrast.

It was not always easy to hear enunciation — particularly from the Arions. Their rich, deep voices were inclined to fill the hall fully and bounce off the back wall.

Both choirs might have done well on occasion to remember the golden rule of choral singing — to open one's mouth and use every vowel, cross every "t."

The Arions obviously enjoyed the whimsy of The Hippopotamus Song.

But in other relishing songs — The Gay Highway, for instance — it is hard to imagine a more sombre-looking group. The music and words sounded gay, but would have benefited if the choir had adopted a little gaiety.

Contractors Picket City

Pickets pace a stately tread in front of city hall for three hours Friday.

They were led by Michael Peddle, of the masonry firm of Peddle and Melbye Ltd., one of six sub-contracting firms which, says Mr. Peddle, are owed $38,000 for work done on Centennial Square.

His firm, says Mr. Peddle, is owed $12,000. The city has a moral obligation to make the debts good because it failed to arrange a performance bond on work done by a landscaping firm which went into bankruptcy.

Mr. Peddle said he will seek an interview with Mayor Toomey who returns from a week's holiday on Monday. If he is unable to get satisfaction, he said, the pickets will be back Tuesday.

'End of World' Brought Jail

The end of the world was coming, Magistrate William Oatler was told in central magistrate's court Friday.

The prophet was Raymond Vallaley, 36, of 1111 1/2 St. James St., who pleaded guilty to vagrancy. He was sentenced to one month in jail.

Vallaley told the court: "The end of the world is coming and I have to take the word of Christ around."

"Whether you put me in jail or not doesn't matter. This is what I was doing last night—watching the motorists to take care."

Constable Bruce Campbell said he found Vallaley on the sidewalk at Humber Green repeatedly reciting the Lord's Prayer.

Vallaley told Constable Campbell he had shifted from the Salvation Army hostel because it had "devils" in it.

Asked how much money he had, Vallaley said: "The Lord prepared me."

Vallaley had a previous conviction for vagrancy and had been convicted Tuesday for being intoxicated in a public place, court was told.

Magistrate Oatler said Vallaley was entitled to his convictions but he must obey the law.

Toronto Trial First

Prosecutor J. W. Anderson told the court Thursday that Harold Robinson Coulter and Gordon Francis Duck, charged with the same offence, would be brought to Victoria following trial in Toronto on other charges.

Coulter is charged with possession of offensive weapons and Duck with possession of counterfeit money.

Gable and Braumberger appeared in court Friday and were remanded to April 22.

A new date for the preliminary hearing will be set then. The hearing was due to begin April 25.

Gable and Braumberger were remanded to Wilkinson Road instead of the city lock-up, where they have been held since their arrest in February.

Defence counsel Dermot Owen-Flood said the pair had complained of inadequate facilities in the lock-up.

Bail has been set at $17,500 each.

Seventeen-year-old Randolph McDougall was described as a "manipulator" by Magistrate Oatler.

McDougall had pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to stealing a car.

He was sentenced to one year in the Young Offenders' Unit with an indefinite period of four months.

Douglas McKeown, 283 Atkins, was sentenced to 21 days in jail after he pleaded guilty to his second impaired driving offence.

No Headlamps, Weaving

He was followed along Old Island Highway early Friday morning by an RCMP car which saw McKeown drive without his lights for a while, weave across the road and drive on the wrong side for a mile.

McKeown admitted to being convicted for impaired driving in February, 1965.

Kenneth Robinson just sat and stared when police and a doctor asked him questions in the Saanich police station April 9.

Robinson, address unavailable, was found guilty of impaired driving and was fined $300. His licence was suspended.

Constables David McGregor and Norman Ellison said Robinson was stopped on Cedar Hill Road at about 8:30 p.m. Two partly full bottles of beer were put out of the car by a passenger.

Three drivers were fined $40 each for careless driving.

Leona Darouin of Nanaimo hit a hydro pole at Niagara and Randall March 17.

William Henwood, 1735 Kisher, was in a rear-end collision at Hillside and Grosvenor March 19.

Jack Rogers, 1670 Richardson, was in an accident at St. Charles and Rockland March 16.

Glen Lageri, 2540 Empire, kept going when he struck a parked truck on Hillside March 19. He was fined $100 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Will Be Towed to Sea

Poor Pokey Finally Dies

CHARLES CITY, Va. (AP) — Pokey, the whale, who lived briefly in the James River far from his native home in the Atlantic ocean, died Friday.

The 30-foot mammal, who touched the hearts of many in his fight for life, had about 40 bullet holes in his 3,000-pound body.

Pronouncing Pokey dead from the office of Governor Mills E. Godwin Jr., which said Pokey's remains would be towed to sea, 70 miles away.

Pokey had been left for dead Wednesday night after he was tied to a tree along the shore and shot 12 times with a .30-calibre rifle. The rifleman intended to kill him on grounds he was a menace to river fishermen. But when a commercial fisherman began towing away the body Thursday, Pokey came to life. He swished his great tail, snapped three nylon towlines and swam off.

And, even though he had previously been shot 25 or 30 times, Pokey seemed in excellent health, he spouted water defiantly.

Meanwhile, angry protests came from the public. Since Monday, when Pokey was first spotted by the fisherman, Normay Haynes, callers have been asking for the intervention of the U.S. Army, the coast guard, Governor Godwin, the Virginia Institute of Marine Science and the U.S. interior department.

Commons to Sit July and August?

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson issued Friday night the government will extend Commons sittings through July and August if necessary to debate important legislation.

He called for all-party agreement to adjourn debate as a matter of utmost importance.

The Commons will have a maximum of only 28 days between the end of the Easter recess Tuesday and July 1 for "15 pieces of high-priority legislation that must get through."

Mr. Pearson told the national convention of the Young Liberal Federation of Canada.

The legislation is "social, financial, labor and economic," he said.

His timetable did not include an allowance for unexpected debate, perhaps a "rush" prediction in view of the first part of the session between Jan. 12 and April 6.

In those 11 weeks, the House had spent only six days considering government legislation—all minor.

"The implications of this are serious for the parliamentary conduct of the people's business into accord with the possibilities of our times."

He hoped for "hard, solid, responsible and co-operative work" after the session resumed. But he had been discouraged by the attitude of Opposition Leader Diefenbaker in a nationwide television appearance Wednesday night.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the inquiry by Mr. Justice Wilcart Spence into the German Munster affair was reminiscent of the star chamber abolished in Britain in 1541.

"Imagine describing a royal commission as a star chamber commission when it is headed by a justice of the Supreme Court of Canada," Mr. Pearson said.

It was unbelievable that Mr. Diefenbaker should suggest such a "tragic death of a pathetic politician" in the little man.

KILKENNY, Ireland (UPI) — A lead explosion shattered the peace of the little village of Kilkenny in South Ireland Friday night, but there was no immediate indication what caused it.

Police set up roadblocks around the village and searched the area to determine what caused the blast and if there was any danger.

Boland's Mill Surrender Relived

By DONAL O'HIGGINS
DUBLIN (UPI) — The two men last met on a battlefield one April day in 1916, bitter enemies.

Friday they stood across from each other in the plush boardroom of a modern bakery. They smiled tentatively, then embraced in friendship with a handshake that spanned half a century and opened the floodgates of memory.

"A lot has happened since we last met," said 83-year-old

Irish president Eamon De Valera.

"Yes, indeed," replied 80-year-old John Bole, late of His Majesty's 6th Lincolnshire Regiment.

Half a century had not obscured the memory of their first meeting for either man. Bole, whose fresh complexion and youthful vigor belied his 80 years, was a British Army captain that April in 1916.

It was he who accepted the flag of truce from De Valera, the fiery young commandant of the Boland's Mill Garrison at the collapse of the Easter uprising.

Now they were together, not far from the scene of De Valera's surrender.

"I'm glad to see you survived to enjoy the accomplishment of the ideals of which you spoke on a certain fateful journey," Bole said.

The journey was the heart-breaking march which De Valera was forced to take to nearby Baggin's Bush Barracks as a captive of the British.

The men chatted fondly in the bakery and De Valera unveiled a plaque in honor of the 1916 uprising.

***

The plaque was inscribed in Gaelic and English: "Commemorating the rising of 1916 and the part played in the rising by the garrison of Boland's Bakery."

De Valera himself was presented with a replica in gold of the sword of light. He then made a similar presentation to 40 survivors of the garrison, which held out for

Johnson Back At Ranch

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson returned to his ranch Friday night after a 34-hour visit to Mexico City.

He was accompanied by his daughter Luci. Mrs. Johnson and their daughter, Lynda, remained in Mexico City overnight.

The president's departure had been delayed for two hours because of an unusually long lunch with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz and an unscheduled visit to the home of Mexican comic actor Mario Moreno (Cantinflas).

STAR INVITATION
The film star invited the U.S. president to come and see him when they met Thursday, the day of Johnson's arrival here.

President Johnson told a cheering crowd here Friday that he supports a proposed summit meeting of U.S. and Latin American leaders.

Soviets Aiding India?

DACCA, Pakistan (Reuters) — Foreign Minister Chen Yi of China attacked the Soviet Union Friday for its stand on the Indo-Pakistan war last September, and accused the United States of making preparations to attack China.

Without naming the Soviet Union directly, Chen Yi accused it of supporting India's desire to annex disputed Kashmir State, while "disguising itself as an impartial mediator."

STAKES IN ASIA
Chen Yi said imperialist and colonialist forces to save themselves from defeat "have put their stakes on Southeast Asia where the struggle is the sharpest at present."

"The United States government has officially announced that it has shifted the centre of gravity of its global strategy to the Far East."

"It regards China, which resolutely supports the revolutionary anti-imperialist struggles of all peoples, as its main enemy."

In Qui Nhon, about 200 miles northwest of Saigon, the first of more than 3,000 Korean combat troops came ashore to strengthen the republic of Korea's Tiger division.

U.S. military spokesmen reported that more American servicemen were killed fighting in Viet Nam in the first 90 days of this year than in all of 1965.

Strange Battleground

Fascinating Story of Canadian Troops in Korea

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — On Oct. 4, 1960, Gen. Douglas MacArthur told Brig. Frank Flourey of Canada in Tokyo that he had based his plans for his highly successful Inchon amphibious operation the previous month on Wolfe's campaign against Montcalm at Quebec in 1759.

This is one of the many fascinating details in Strange Battleground, the official history of the Canadian Army in Korea published today by the Queen's Printer. The author is Lt.-Col. Herbert Patrick Wood, now retired England.

The Inchon landing, carried out by the United States 10th Corps and South Korean troops, was the first successful operation of the war by United Nations forces.

Some other tidbits from the 317-page book containing photographs and colored maps:

Canada's contributions were an army brigade, three destroyers, a transport squadron and some 20 fighter pilots were made "piecemeal" and then only after the United Nations (it made formal requests).

The United States sent a formal note to Canada asking for a brigade for the UN force. Canada complied 11 days later, on Aug. 1, 1950.

Less than two years after the 1944 conscription crisis, the Canadian Army asked for a strength of 55,000, to be obtained by compulsory universal service.

The brigade for Korea was raised "in uncertainty, haste and improvisation."

Among the first men enlisted was one with an artificial leg and another 72 years old. Col. Woods adds: "There is at least one recorded case of a civilian who on impulse got on board a troop train in

Drag Track Defended

Chickens Not Nervous!

By JIM BRAHAN

Mill Bay chicken owners are talking through their thumbs, according to a Victoria sun club president.

It has been reported that owners of laying hens, frying chickens, turkeys, geese, ducks, and sheep are all opposed to a proposed Mill Bay drag strip because they fear their animals will suffer from the noise of the dragsters.

Gordon Stewart of the Roadsters' car club does not agree.

"Down in the States on many occasions we have had to round up cows and keep them off the tracks so we could race," he said Friday. "One of the big American tracks runs right alongside a chicken ranch and apparently it hasn't bothered the hens."

"Our own horse racing track is alongside the Patricia Bay Airport, and the noise from the aircraft doesn't seem to bother the race horses."

He said the screaming noise of jet engines far outdoes any greater exhaust.

"The total time any car would be running is 15 seconds, and the fastest cars would finish their runs in about eight seconds."

He said there would be only two cars on the strip at any one time, as opposed to a speedway where there can be more than 30 cars racing on the track.

"People living close to speedways have about four hours of steady noise," he added.

The drag strip has been planned on the 130-acre site of the former Deeks-McBride gravel pit, now owned by Miss Stogrin of Duncan and three silent partners, who aim to operate under the name of Duncan International Raceways.

The owner of the property adjoining the proposed strip is reported to foresee a depreciation of property values if the track is built.

Lumber Mishap at Port Alberni

Longshoreman Killed As Ship Cargo Slips

PORT ALBERNI — A deckload of lumber let go with a thundering roar, causing the death of one man and injuring five other longshoremen Friday morning at Somers Dock, Port Alberni.

Shortly before 11 a.m., the deckload let go on the largest lumber load ever to enter here. More than half the load was reported to have gone over the side carrying with it one man and injuring five others.

WITH LUMBER

Missing and believed drowned is Arthur Dube, 36, of 221 Princess Avenue in Alberni. Fellow longshoremen reported seeing Mr. Dube go over the side into the water with the lumber.

One reported seeing the missing man come to the surface briefly, through the floating lumber and then vanish.

UNDER CHARTER

The ship, the 15,833-ton Archangel, is of Liberian registry, under charter to London, England, shipbrokers. The master is Capt. K. Telle.

Harbormaster Don Brook said the large vessel first entered Port Alberni March 26, took on a partial load, went to Crofton for further loading and returned to Port Alberni for "topping off".

ROCKED BACK

Longshoremen, employed on the loading said that the vessel first heeled towards the water and then back towards the dock. This is said to have saved many more workers from injury.

When the ship tipped back for the second time large pieces of lumber split like matchsticks.

BOOMS FLYING

The cool head of S. "Sharkey" Schwartz prevented additional injuries.

HELD HIM

"Sharkey just stood there and kept hollering to the guys to get out of the ship. When he saw Andy Polier about to go over the side he caught him and held him," Mr. Kootenkos said.

INJURED

Taken to hospital but later released were Harold Fuller, severe leg abrasions and bruises; Andre Polier, foot injuries; Joseph Cuthbert, shock; Louis Buran, injured shoulder.

Jess Hamilton of 355 River Road was detained in hospital with head injuries.

Divers and rescue boats started searching for the body of Mr. Dube immediately after the accident.

The Archangel will be delayed at Port Alberni for several days while repairs are carried out to the superstructure.

Apology to Mother Cecilia

On Friday, March 25, The Daily Colonist published an article under the heading "Sister Mary Ursula Leaves Good Shepherd Shelter," which contained several statements adversely reflecting upon the character of Mother Cecilia and upon the work carried out by the Good Shepherd Shelter Foundation at Mill Bay.

The Daily Colonist would like to state that the opinions expressed in the article were not those of this newspaper and to publicly offer its apology to Mother Cecilia for the embarrassment which the article in question caused her, and for any inference contained therein which may have tended to impugn her person and reputation or be detrimental to the work upon which she is engaged.

Petitioners Demand Swimming Pool

Mrs. Ton Hamilton, Mrs. W. H. Taylor and Mrs. Jarvis Jickling with their children prepare to march to Duncan city and municipal halls with petition for an area swimming pool.

Mothers with Petitions Demand Swimming Pool

DUNCAN — An advance guard of mothers and children Friday afternoon marched to city hall and North Cowichan municipal hall with petitions asking for an indoor swimming pool included in a multi-purpose recreation centre.

The petitions were signed by 50 taxpayers from the city of Duncan and the North Cowichan municipality.

One of the organizers, Mrs. Ton Hamilton said, "This is only a beginning and many more people will come forward to ask for a swimming pool."

TRAINING

She said as a Red Cross swimming instructor, she is painfully aware of the lack of proper and sufficient swim training facilities in this area.

Mrs. Hamilton stressed, "Even if a swimming pool would help to save one single human life it will be worth while."

Civic officials told her the petition and the letters will be presented to the council at their respective meetings.

City Troubled By Old Shaft

NANAIMO — Most reminders of Nanaimo's coal industry have long since disappeared from above ground but the city is still having to pay the bill for its past history.

This year $21,000 has been allocated to provide an answer to the problem created by the Douglas Shaft.

This money will see the final phase of the project completed. The shaft, situated just south of Rainer Street on the south-way out to tidewater.

Campbell River

Area Growing Rapidly

Campbell River is the fastest growing place in B.C. outside of Prince George, according to Dan Campbell, MLA for the Island riding.

"A few years ago I estimated the population of this area to be about 10,000 by 1970. It looks like this stage will be reached by 1967," he said.

On a visit this week, Mr. Campbell had talks on the incorporation of Woss Camp, in the Nimpkish valley into a village.

Incorporation would require special legislation, he said. Municipal development of Woss Camp can't be done on a multi-concept basis because the area has a single employer.

Its incorporation would be a new concept of an instant town, said Mr. Campbell, and this would have an effect on the status of other industrial communities throughout the province.

These people would still be able to govern the affairs of their community if the legislature adopted the amendment allowing them to sit on municipal councils, Mr. Campbell said.

Found by Brother

Man Safe On Island

GANGES (CP) — A Richmond man given up as lost after his empty boat was found washed ashore in the Gulf Islands was found Friday alive and well on Prevost Island in the Strait of Georgia.

Gary Brda, aged 35, was found by his brother Robert.

Robert persisted in his search for his brother, even though an official air-sea rescue search was called off earlier this week after Gary's boat was found washed ashore and upright on an island.

Clean-Up Planned At Qualicum Beach

QUALICUM BEACH — Craig Read was re-elected president of the Qualicum Beach Chamber of Commerce for a second consecutive term at a recent annual meeting.

Others elected were: vice-president, Earl Sharrman; directors, Gordon Chamberlayne, Oran Rye, Larry Haddon, Arthur Brown, Mrs. Jean Brown and Les Pollard.

The resignation of secretary-treasurer Allan Ransom was accepted with regret, and Ken Doolittle was appointed to fill the vacancy.

The village council has concurred with the chamber's request that the week of April 17-23 be declared clean-up week for the village. Village equipment will be available to pick up rubbish on April 20 and 22.

The Chamber is sponsoring the clean up project and all residents and owners of businesses are urged to make a special effort to tidy up their premises.

Valley Smog Theme Not Commissioned

ident, Robert Aller, Friday.

"I am sure he must have been "Such statements could ruin

valley."

Mr. Segger had been instructed by the Community Arts

Council of Port Alberni to paint

the Alberni Valley on the fence surrounding the new provincial Victoria.

"I never said anything about

Prods Resisted By Duncan Recreation Body

DUNCAN — Members of the City of Duncan recreation commission agreed Thursday night they will not be pushed into a hasty decision on recreation.

A week ago, the entire North Cowichan Recreation Commission decided the southern part of North Cowichan, the city and the south Cowichan unorganized area must come up with a recreational project within four weeks or Chemainus people probably would be allowed to have another bylaw on the Fuller's Lake arena minus the southern portion of the area.

At that time North Cowichan commissioners from the northern part of the municipality, who pushed for another Fuller's Lake arena vote for Chemainus, Crofton and Westholme said they would wait another four weeks but then wanted to see action.

MONTH

North Cowichan commission chairman Coun. Dennis Hogan said he was hopeful a recreational project could be worked out within a month which could tie in the city of Duncan, the entire North Cowichan municipality and possibly the unorganized south Cowichan area.

Last month the heavy defeat by the southern portion of North Cowichan of a $700,000 composite recreation bylaw, including the $300,000 Fuller's Lake ice arena, left Chemainus and Crofton taxpayers frustrated.

Members of the city of Duncan recreation commission Thursday night agreed: "We are somewhat indignant at the attitude and attempts made by some people to threaten, proclaim ultimata and generally interfere with the planning the commission is doing in the field of recreation."

AT HEART

Coun. Hogan added:

"We have all aspects of recreation at heart and intend to develop as many phases as possible. Both young and elderly must be included in future plans."

"We are not just an 'area commission.' There are many problems just as pressing at hand."

"We are annoyed at the attitude of a pressure group trying to force the commission into making hasty and possibly ill-conceived plans."

CO-OPERATION

"We feel it is time all parties sat down and co-operated on possible joint facilities instead of threats and angry statements. Plans made in haste will not benefit the community at large."

"A comprehensive, overall plan must be developed to include South Cowichan, Duncan, North Cowichan and possibly Lake Cowichan and Ladysmith."

"We feel the provincial government should be requested to furnish a recreation planner, who would make all necessary studies leading to any major facility."

WHOLE AREA

"We have the responsibility of recommending to Duncan city council on recreational matters and in doing so must be sure our recommendations are for the best advantage of recreation for the entire district."

Concrete Floor Non-Stop Project

NANAIMO — A crew of tired civic workmen spent 14 hours Friday wheeling in 150 cubic yards of concrete for the new arena floor.

The work started at 3 a.m. and didn't finish until 10 p.m.

After all the concrete is laid a special layer of trap rock is trowelled on top, which next week will be polished to a smooth finish.

The project, when completed, will have cost $60,000.

Civic Properties and Recreation

Commission manager

Harry Wipper said before the new floor was laid 2,000 yards of clay and black smuck were excavated from beneath the old floor and gravel was brought in to replace this material.

Nine miles of plastic pipe was then laid up and down the full length of the 150 by 80-foot floor

concrete.

Duncan Chamber Told

Streets 'Not Filthy'

DUNCAN — Chamber of Commerce chairman Sam Keeble told the town Wednesday morning and later reported to chamber members.

"The city certainly was not dirty. It looked as though the streets had just been swept," he said. There were a few papers around the railway tracks, but the streets were not filthy, as recently proclaimed.

Poor marking of some school crossings and turn lanes on heavy traffic highways concerned the members.

"There are some very treacherous places. We are not going to let this thing drop," the chairman said.

Cowichan artists have been busy painting masterpieces on the unfinished court house building since the past two days. The contest continues to the end of April and several prizes have been offered by the chamber of commerce and local merchants.

Applications for membership from OK Tire Shop, Duncan Zoo and Lally Guest House were received and accepted.

The president would like to enroll 37 new members in 1955.

Several councillors have volunteered to canvass for donations to the chamber $350 towards the $3,500 Vancouver Island Tourist Bureau will spend this year.

"With the new ferry to the north, we can expect a tremendous influx of people. The new tourist museum in Duncan may become second only to the Rinkhart Gardens as a tourist attraction," said Mr. Keeble.

Columbia Trollers Stay In

ASTORIA (AP)—A price dispute kept the Columbia River salmon troller fleet of more than 100 vessels in port Friday as the salmon season opened.

The president of the West Coast Trollers Association, James Green of Warrenton, declined comment on a report from Westport, Wash., that fishermen had rejected a buyers' offer of 62 cents per pound for large springs, 49 cents for mediums, and 37 cents for smalls.

Reds Down Pilotless Plane

TOKYO (AP)—An unmanned, high altitude U.S. reconnaissance plane was shot down over Hanoi Friday, the New China news agency said today, quoting a North Vietnamese announcement.

Hanoi said it was the 18th pilotless plane brought down over North Viet Nam. No further description of the aircraft was given.

Will Be Towed to Sea

Poor Pokey Finally Dies

CHARLES CITY, Va. (AP)—Pokey, the whale, who lived briefly in the James River far from his native home in the Atlantic ocean, died Friday.

The 30-foot mammal, who touched the hearts of many in his fight for life, had about 40 bullet holes in his 3,000-pound body.

Pronouncing Pokey dead was Virginia's state commissioner of fisheries, Milton T. Shikama.

Word of the death came from the office of Governor Mills E. Godwin Jr., which said Pokey's remains would be towed to sea, 70 miles away.

Pokey had been left for dead Wednesday night after he was tied to a tree along the shore and shot 12 times with a .30-calibre rifle. The rifleman intended to kill him on grounds he was a menace to river fishermen.

But when a commercial fisherman began towing away the body Thursday, Pokey came to life. He swished his great tail, snapped three nylon towlines and swam off.

And, even though he had previously been shot 25 or 30 times, Pokey seemed in excellent health, he spouted water defiantly.

Meanwhile, angry protests came from the public.

Since Monday, when Pokey was first spotted by the fisherman, Norman Haynes, callers have been asking for the intervention of the U.S. Army, the coast guard, Governor Godwin, the Virginia Institute of Marine Science and the U.S. interior department.

Commons to Sit July and August?

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson hinted Friday night the government will extend Commons sittings through July and August if necessary to debate important legislation.

He called for all-party agreement to allocate debate as a matter of utmost importance.

The Commons will have a maximum of only 28 days between the end of the Easter recess Tuesday and July 1 for "15 pieces of high-priority legislation that must get through."

Mr. Pearson told the national convention of the Young Liberal Federation of Canada.

"The legislation is 'social, financial, labor and economic,' he said.

His timetable did not include an allowance for unexpected delays, perhaps a "rash" prediction in view of the first part of the session between Jan. 28 and April 6.

In those 11 weeks, the House had spent only six days considering government legislation—all minor.

"The implications of this are serious for the parliamentary conduct of the people's business into accord with the possibilities of our times."

He hoped for "hard, solid, responsible and so-operative work" after the session resumed. But he had been discouraged by the attitude of Opposition Leader Diefenbaker in a nationwide television appearance Wednesday night.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the inquiry by Mr. Justice Winhart Spence into the Gerda Munster affair was reminiscent of the star chamber abolished in Britain in 1641.

"Imagine describing a royal commission as a star chamber, death from natural causes of alleged spy George Victor Spencer, whose dismissal from the post office is the subject of a separate inquiry.

Mr. Pearson described it as the "tragic death of a pathetic little man."

All-party agreement on debate?

By DONAL O'HIGGINS

DUBLIN (UPI)—The two men last met on a battlefield one April day in 1916, bitter enemies.

Friday they stood across from each other in the plush boardroom of a modern bakery. They smiled tentatively, then embraced in friendship with a handshake that spanned half a century and opened the floodgates of memory.

"A lot has happened since we last met," said 63-year-old

Irish president Eamon De Valera.

"Yes, indeed," replied 80-year-old John Hitzon, late of His Majesty's 46th Lincolnshire Regiment.

Half a century had not obscured the memory of their first meeting for either man. Hitzon, whose fresh complexion and youthful vigor betrays his 80 years, was a British Army captain that April in 1916.

It was he who accepted the flag of truce from De Valera, the fiery young commander of the Boland's Mill Garrison at the collapse of the Easter uprising.

Now they were together, not far from the scene of De Valera's surrender.

"I'm glad to see you survived to enjoy the accomplishment of the ideals of which you spoke on a certain fateful journey," Hitzon said.

The journey was the heart-breaking march which De Valera was forced to take to nearby Beggar's Bush Barracks as a captive of the British.

The men chatted fondly in the bakery and De Valera unveiled a plaque in honor of the 1916 uprising.

The plaque was inscribed in Gaelic and English: "Commemorating the rising of 1916 and the part played in the rising by the garrison of Boland's Bakery."

De Valera himself was presented with a replica in gold of the sword of light. He then made a similar presentation to 40 survivors of the garrison, which held out for

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson returned to his ranch Friday night after a 24-hour visit to Mexico City.

He was accompanied by his daughter Luci, Mrs. Johnson and their daughter, Lynda, remained in Mexico City overnight.

The president's departure had been delayed for two hours because of an unusually long lunch with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz and an unscheduled visit to the home of Mexican comic actor Mario Moreno (Cantinflas).

STAB INVITATION
The film star invited the U.S. president to come and see him when they met Thursday, the day of Johnson's arrival here.

President Johnson told a cheering crowd here Friday that he supports a proposed summit meeting of U.S. and Latin American leaders.

LINCOLN STATUE

Soviets Aiding India?

DACCA, Pakistan (Reuters)—Foreign Minister Chen Yi of China attacked the Soviet Union Friday for its stand on the Indo-Pakistan war last September, and accused the United States of making preparations to attack China.

Without naming the Soviet Union directly, Chen Yi accused it of supporting India's desire to annex disputed Kashmir State, while "disguising itself as an impartial mediator."

STAKES IN ASIA
Chen Yi said imperialist and colonialist forces to save themselves from defeat "have put their stakes on Southeast Asia where the struggle is the sharpest at present."

"The United States government has officially announced that it has shifted the centre of gravity of its global strategy to the Far East."

"It regards China, which resolutely supports the revolutionary anti-imperialist struggles of all peoples, as its main enemy."

Strange Battleground

Fascinating Story of Canadian Troops in Korea

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—On Oct. 4, 1950, Gen. Douglas MacArthur told Brig. Frank Ploury of Canada in Tokyo that he had based his plans for his highly successful Inchon amphibious operation the previous month on Wolfe's campaign against Montcalm at Quebec in 1759.

This is one of the many fascinating details in Strange Battleground, the official history of the Canadian Army in Korea published today by the Queen's Printer. The author is Lt.-Col. Herbert Fairlie Wood, now retired England.

The Inchon landing, carried out by the United States 10th Corps and South Korean troops, was the first successful operation of the war by United Nations forces.

Some other tidbits from the 317-page book containing photographs and colored maps:

Canada's contributions were an army brigade, three destroyers, a transport squadron and some 20 fighter pilots were made "piecemeal and then only after the United Nations itself made formal requests."

The United States sent a formal note to Canada asking for a brigade for the UN force. Canada complied 11 days later, on Aug. 7, 1950.

Less than two years after the 1944 conscription crisis, the Canadian Army asked for a strength of 35,000, to be obtained by compulsory universal service.

The brigade for Korea was raised "in uncertainty, haste and improvisation."

Among the first men enlisted was one with an artificial leg and another 72 years old. Col. Woods adds: "There is at least one recorded case of a civilian who on impulse got on board a troop train in
